DAUGHERTY TO BE ASKED FOR HIS STORY UNDER OATH

W. O. Duckstein, Blair Coan and Possibly E. B. McLean Also to Be Summoned Before Committee

DAUGHERTY'S LETTER A BLOW AT COOLIDGE

Reopens Scandal, but G. O. P. Leaders Wish He Had Waited Until After Election.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyatt Building, WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Harry M. Daugherty, whether he meant to or not, has struck back at President Coolidge for quelling him from the Cabinet.

His production of Gaston Means' repudiation of testimony given before the Brookhart-Wheeler committee has reopened the whole scandal.

The committee is going to resume its sessions, and that means that in the middle of the campaign public attention will again be drawn to the revelation of the grafting of Jesse Smith, the then Attorney-General's closest friend.

Smith shared Daugherty's home, and had a desk, though no official title, in the Department of Justice, and thus was enabled to traffic in money, whiskey, and other goods, and to use his position to capitalize his supposed ability to dispense immunity to law-breakers.

Chairman Brookhart has authorized Senator Ashurst to organize the new hearings. None of the committee has any doubt of its authority to go ahead, and the plans are to summon Daugherty to repeat under oath his declaration of his knowledge of perjury committed in the previous hearings.

McLean May Be Called.

William O. Duckstein, secretary to Edward B. McLean, who, according to Means, dickered with his immunity in exchange for a nomination; Blair Coan, who is charged by Means with having negotiated with him, and probably McLean himself will be asked for information.

While they are about it, they expect to go into the George Remus incident and ascertain whether under oath before the committee he will persist in his confession of perjury.

That predicament also confronts Means. Up to date he denies that he made any affidavit for Daugherty, so he may have dodged any question for perjury, but when he is called as a witness again he will have to throw the ex-Attorney-General under or seek refuge in a refusal to answer on the ground that to do so would subject him to prosecution for perjury.

May Mean Loss of Iowa.

All the Republican politicians who Harry Daugherty had dickered his drive for vindication until after the election. The first consequence of his move is likely to be the loss of Iowa.

They have had a lot of trouble keeping Brookhart quiet, but as he accused, with Wheeler, of having bought the Bootlegger King's pardon, Brookhart's neutrality between Coolidge and La Follette may disappear, and nobody doubts his power to throw Iowa to La Follette if he wants to.

The Democrats do not care how either Means or Daugherty comes out; they are looking for the psychological effect of a renewal of the discussion whether Daugherty was or was not cognizant of activities of Jesse Smith, Means and the others.

Senator Wheeler has indicated that Means advised him that he was promised help in beating his whiskey conviction if he would make the sort of statement Daugherty wanted, and he has made similar comments to others. Means conveyed that he was going along, to ascertain, if possible, the basis of the promises that were being made. In other words, he indicated that when he found out who the "high-toned" were in the proposal he meant to disclose them to the committee.

Playing Both Sides.

He told of visits by Blair Coan and by Duckstein, and the circumstances that he apparently avoided making an affidavit, but furnished the statement Daugherty wanted, suggests that he was really playing both sides. In the correspondence disclosed in connection with the matter, Thomas B. Felder appears

SHE MUST BE LIKE, AND ALSO UNLIKE, THE SNAIL, ECHO AND CLOCK

PARIS, Sept. 12.

ACCORDING to the humorous weekly, Pala-Mela, a philosopher says there are three things which a woman must resemble in one way, but not in another:

"She must be like a snail, which never leaves its house; but, unlike a snail, she must not put all she owns on her back."

"She must be like an echo, which speaks only when spoken to; but she must not, like the echo, always insist on the last word."

"Finally, she must be like the town clock, always correct and always punctual; but she must not, as the clock does, make so much noise than she will be heard all over the town."

ARMS AND THE MAN CAUSE OF BULGARIAN COMPLAINT

Protest by Minister to Berlin at Production of Shaw's Play There Draws Pointed Retort.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Balkan sensibilities were wounded to such an extent through the production of George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" would be produced in Germany that the Bulgarian Minister addressed a formal request to the manager of the theater requesting him to desist from presenting a play which he charged mocks and ridicules Bulgarians.

The German producer, however, was not moved by the protest and designated the diplomat's objection as far-fetched inasmuch as the "Shavian pen spared no one, not even Shaw's own countrymen."

The Bulgarian legation made an unsuccessful attempt to have the play suppressed five years ago when its presentation was interrupted by rioting Bulgarian students.

PROVISIONS GONE, U. S. SURVEY PARTY LIVES ON ALASKAN GAME

Geologists Subsist Last 10 Days of Trip Through Mountains by Use of Rifle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—How they trekked for weeks through the mountain fastnesses of Arctic Alaska, subsisting the last 10 days on game they killed after their provisions gave out, was recounted in a wireless message to the Interior Department yesterday, reporting the safe arrival at Kotzebue Sound of the geological survey party he led on an exploration of petroleum naval reservoir No. 4.

The arduous trip inland from Wainwright Inlet on the Arctic coast, through the mountains consumed two weeks more than had been expected. Food supplies were exhausted, and the party did not suffer from hunger.

PAID HOSPITAL BILLS FOR POOR

Delavan Smith's Charity Revealed in Will Contest.

By the Associated Press.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Sept. 24.—Delavan Smith, Lake Forest, Ill., capitalist, gave orders that when patients of the Alice Home Hospital at Lake Forest were unable to pay, the bills should be sent to him. Dr. Clifford P. McCullough of Lake Forest testified today in the suit in which 16 cousins are seeking to break the Smith will.

Smith wanted to buy back stock from Dr. McCullough when the enterprise in which the doctor had invested because of Smith's connection with it, failed to produce profits, the physician testified.

Z-R-3 Will Carry No Life Boats.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 24.—The Z-R-3 will not carry any life boats or even life preservers on her transatlantic voyage. "They are heavy, take up a lot of space, and besides we have Eckenrode, the commander. 'Life boats are all right for sea-going vessels and sailing ships, but we feel that the Z-R-3 is safer than any ship which ever pilled the water.'"

REMUS RECALLED AFTER CHARGES WERE DISMISSED

Three Counts in Cincinnati Case, Which Supreme Court Had Reinstated, Dropped by Request.

INDICTMENT VOTED HERE IS PENDING

Millionaire Bootlegger, Given Two Years and Fined $10,000, Should Be Released Sept. 2, 1925.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—Gaston B. Remus' purported repudiation of his testimony against Harry M. Daugherty, former Attorney-General, has revived interest here in the somewhat similar repudiation by George Remus, millionaire bootlegger, now in Atlanta penitentiary, of his testimony against Daugherty before a Senatorial committee.

Since Remus' repudiation statement was made public Aug. 28, there have been rumors here that the statement was made in consideration of the action, taken a month before, dismissing the cases pending against him in the Federal Court here. There were also reports that a promise had been made to him as to similar disposition of the indictment pending against Remus in St. Louis in the milking of about 900 barrels of whiskey from the Jack Daniels warehouse there. The St. Louis indictment, however, still stands, and has been set for trial Jan. 8.

Inquiry here shows that cases on three counts, pending against Remus in the Federal Court here, were dismissed July 28, by Federal Judge Smith Hickenlooper. That was one month before Remus' repudiation statement was made known at Atlanta.

Dropped by Request.

The record shows that the dismissal was at the request of United States District Attorney Hough, acting at the instance of Mabel Walker Willebrandt, through Attorney General at Washington in charge of liquor cases, and a Daugherty appointee. Mrs. Willebrandt is understood to have taken the ground that Remus had been punished enough. He is now serving a 2-year term, to which a fine of $10,000 was added, for conspiracy to violate the prohibition act.

The three counts which were dismissed were based on the liquor revenue laws. At the time when Remus was convicted on another count, these three counts and three others were dismissed by Judge J. C. Peck, on the ground that the old liquor revenue laws were automatically repealed by the prohibition act.

The U. S. Supreme Court later reversed Judge Peck as to three of the counts, on the ground that the old liquor statutes had been reenacted in the Willis-Campbell act, and that this act was in force at the time when the offenses named in the three counts were committed. The three counts were reinstated, and three other counts of earlier date and therefore not coming under the same ruling, were not reinstated.

When Remus entered Atlanta prison, Jan. 21 last, the prospect was that, after serving his two years' term, he would have to stand trial on the three counts relating to violation of the liquor revenue laws.

Faces St. Louis Indictment.

But this prospect was removed when the order of dismissal, issued at the instance primarily of Mrs. Willebrandt, was entered here July 28. There now remains against Remus the St. Louis indictment, voted last May.

The question has arisen why the Government, after going to the trouble and expense of carrying the cases to the Supreme Court, in order to get the three counts reinstated, should drop the prosecution. No satisfactory answer has been given here.

Attorney-General Daugherty resigned March 28, last. Whether any influences directed toward aiding or shielding him have remained in the Department of Justice, is a question suggested by the action of Remus, preceded by the dismissal of cases against him.

District Attorney Hough and his assistants referred inquiries to the Department of Justice in Washington.

It will be remembered that, when Remus proposed to come here and locate cancelled checks showing payment of money by him to various persons, the plan

PAIR IN POISON PLOT HELD TO JURY WITHOUT BOND

Coroner's Verdict Names the Rev. L. M. Hight as Instigator of Murder of Both Sweetin and Wife.

PRISONERS TAKEN TO DIFFERENT COUNTIES

Mrs. Sweetin, in Salem, Ill., Jail, Refuses to Eat Breakfast and Presents a Forlorn Figure.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SALEM, Ill., Sept. 24.—Jail bars and county boundaries separate Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, held as a prisoner here, from the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, her accomplice in the poisoning of her husband, Wilford Sweetin, and later the poisoner of his own wife. He is in jail at Nashville, the county seat of Washington County, which lies west, as this (Marion) county is north, of Jefferson County, where the two crimes, to which the prisoners have confessed, were committed.

By the verdict of a Coroner's jury, which finished its work at 11 a. m. today, the pair, last evening, both were to be held without bond. The inquest was into the deaths of Sweetin and Mrs. Hight, and both Hight and Mrs. Sweetin were held in the former case, and Hight in the latter.

As to Sweetin, the Coroner's jury found that he "came to his death by means of arsenic, willfully and maliciously administered by his wife, at the instigation of Hight, in conformity with an agreement between them to murder Sweetin."

Mrs. Hight, the verdict stated, "came to her death by arsenic administered with malice aforethought by her husband."

Both were held for the October grand jury, to meet in Mount Vernon.

Forlorn Figure in Cell.

Mrs. Sweetin was a forlorn figure when morning found her in one of the two cells in the pretentious building labeled "Women's Department" of the cramped and gloomy old jail here.

The two cells—the other is unoccupied at present—are on a separate tier, and while a partition that talks to the men's cells, both cells are open to view from the entrance, unless an occupant chooses to hapse up a sheet or a blanket for the sake of individual privacy. Mrs. Sweetin had hung a blanket over the open framework of her door.

Apparently she slept in her clothing last night. When she pulled the blanket aside and stood in the cell to talk to the Post-Dispatch correspondent, her gray dress was rumpled, and her brown hair hung in ragged strings. Dark circles appeared under her eyes.

Breakfast had been brought to her from the Sheriff's kitchen, but she had not touched the dishes of oatmeal and corn bread, and the black coffee, unadorned, had grown cold.

She spoke but a few minutes with the correspondent, then excused herself, saying she was too tired to talk further.

"How did you come to love Hight?" she asked.

"I don't know," she said. "I can't explain it. We met, and before I knew it, we were in love."

"Was it because of his preaching?"

"Well," and the woman spoke almost as if she were discussing a comparative stranger, "we had very much confidence in him."

"Too Awful to Think of."

"When did you first conceive the plan of poisoning your husband?"

"I didn't conceive that, at all; he was the one who thought of it. It was too awful for me to think of."

"What was the Pinckneyville trip that Hight spoke of (in the interview at Mt. Vernon)?"

"I went to Pinckneyville with relatives. Mr. Hight was not with me, absolutely not. He never went any place with me. We met only at church and Sunday school."

There are 16 men prisoners in the jail, in which Mrs. Sweetin is the only woman. The jail, which is at the rear of the dwelling occupied by Sheriff Vogt, was built 40 years ago. The inner steel framework is painted a dull gray, and the atmosphere, even for a jail, is depressing. Outside, there are rows of bright flowers along the sidewalk.

To Obtain Lawyer's Services.

Upon her arrival at the Salem jail, Mrs. Sweetin asked Dr. S. A. Thompson, who had accompanied her on the automobile trip from

WIVES BOUGHT ON INSTALLMENT PLAN BEING RETURNED

Mortgage Ends in Pondoland, Much Stock Is Thrown on the Market.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Many natives of Pondoland, South Africa, are likely to lose wives purchased on extended credit during the last three years because they claim to be unable to complete their payments.

The purchase of wives on credit is not usually allowed among the natives, as there is too much inclination to return the wives in lieu of the purchase price, but a matrimonial moratorium has been in effect during the period of mourning for the death of a paramount chief. This period is now over and natives who obtained wives on credit must pay up or return the women to their parental kraals.

A mysterious shortage is reported in cattle and horses, with which such payments are usually made.

Mortgage Ends in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—John Philip Hill, Congressman from the Third District of Maryland, who tested the prohibition laws with a cider party at his city home last Saturday night, was indicted by the Federal grand jury today on a charge of the illegal manufacture and possession of liquor.

The indictments also contain a count accusing Hill of maintaining a nuisance at his home. No bail was fixed for the appearance of the Congressman for trial.

There is a temporary injunction already pending against Hill, growing out of a wine-making test conducted last year. It has never been enforced for final judgment, but it has many of the pallid elements as applied to ordinary saloons and places where stills are found.

Accounts in the indictment go as far back as Sept. 27, 1932, when Hill, with notification to the prohibition authorities in Washington, made his grape wine.

The second count accuses him of possession after manufacture of the third count accuses him of the manufacture of cider Sept. 18, 1934, prior to the cider party Saturday night. A third count charges him with the illegal possession of 30 gallons of cider. The fourth count charges him with maintaining a nuisance because of the first manufacture.

CARAWAY ATTACKS WILBUR FOR SUPPRESSED SPEECH

Arkansas Senator Gives Excerpts, Dealing With Voting Rights of Negro, at Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Senator Caraway (Dem., Ark.) attacked the Davis-Bryan Club here last night that the recall of Secretary Wilbur from his Western tour was because of a speech he intended to deliver at Denver Sept. 20.

The Arkansas Senator recounted what he said were excerpts from the address, particularly those dealing with the voting rights of negroes, and attacked the Secretary as "Mr. Wilbur, who knows so much about everything, and especially that part of the address below the Mason Dix line."

The speech was issued in confidence in advance to newspapers and press associations for publication when delivered. When Secretary Wilbur abandoned his trip, the speech was recalled.

THIRD IN FAMILY SLAIN

Kentucky Woman's Sister and Husband Also Met Violent Deaths.

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 24.—Mrs. Sallie Shepherd of Saylorville, Magoffin County, was shot and killed by unidentified persons at the home of a brother-in-law, according to reports received here last night. Her death was the third by violence in her immediate family.

Recently her sister was slain, and Mrs. Shepherd's husband, John Morgan Shepherd, was indicted for the crime and convicted, but obtained a new trial. While he was awaiting a second hearing he was shot and killed, and Kelly Howard was indicted for that killing. Howard's hearing was set for the present term of the Magoffin Circuit Court, and Mrs. Shepherd was to be the principal witness against him.

Sixteen speeches, eight in Minnesota and eight in Wisconsin, have been arranged by Republican headquarters. Dawes will begin speaking early tomorrow, with a rear platform address at Rochester, Minn.

BANK WRECKER CARR GETS EIGHT YEARS; STARTS FOR JEFFERSON CITY

MRS. HENKE SLAIN 12 HOURS BEFORE BODY WAS FOUND

Coroner's Testimony Supports Claim Woman Died Before Time Husband Usually Left Home.

TOP OF HER SKULL SHOWN IN COURT

Weapon Believed to Have Been Used in Killing Also Displayed—State to Seek Death Penalty.

Mrs. Marie Henke had been dead 12 to 14 hours before her body was discovered in bed at her residence in Richmond Heights about 8 p. m. July 11 last, Coroner Bracy testified today, as the first witness in the trial of her husband, Harry A. Henke Jr., charged with her murder. The trial is before Circuit Judge McElhinney at Clayton. The courtroom was crowded with spectators, most of whom were women.

The Coroner's statement as to the time of death upholds the theory of the prosecution that Mrs. Henke was slain early on the morning of July 11, before the time that Henke customarily left the house for his work. The defense contends that death occurred during the day, while the members of the household were away.

The woman gazed, and Henke gazed steadily at the floor, when the prosecution presented the top of Mrs. Henke's skull for examination of the Coroner. He pointed out two places which he said were the fractures which caused death. When a wrench, found near the body was shown, the Coroner said it was such an instrument as might have caused the fractures.

Objection by Defense.

Defense counsel objected strenuously to testimony of the Coroner as to the length of time between the death and discovery of the body. It was contended by the defense that the Coroner had not made a sufficiently thorough examination to enable him to determine that fact.

The defense was outlined by Eugene McMahon, who with former State Senator A. E. L. Gardner, represents Henke.

It will seek to prove that there was a period of time on July 11 when the doors of the Henke home were unlocked; that the Coroner's opinion as to the time of death was not accurate because the examination was superficial; that Henke did not wear pajamas and that pajamas found in the house did not show blood stains, as alleged by the prosecution.

The State will ask "the most severe penalty under the law," in this case, R. A. Roosevelt, special prosecutor, announced in his opening statement, to the jury, which includes seven farmers. Roosevelt, in his outline, began with Thursday night, July 10, the night before the murder.

He said that after 11 o'clock on the night of July 10, there were only three persons in the house at 1721 Beulah place. These were Henke and his wife, and the wife's stepfather, Joseph Yost.

Entrance Not Forced.

"All doors and windows were locked, and screens were in place," he said. "There was no sign anywhere that an entrance had been forced."

There were two Yale keys to the front door, and Yost, who had one, found the other, which was Mrs. Henke's, inside the door when he returned to the house the evening of the 11th.

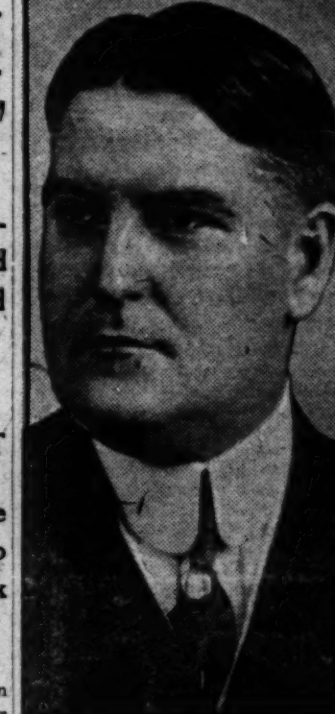

The prosecutor then told of the finding of the young woman's body, by Yost, and of his surprise and perturbation, which caused him to fall down the front stairs as he went to call neighbors.

Trails of Telephone Call.

Two barking dogs, in the basement, were not heard "make any noise that day," the prosecutor said further, in developing his belief that no outsider had entered the place. He told of Henke's telephoning to a neighbor, to inquire about his wife, a thing which, he said, Henke had not done before. "When a neighbor was helping to look about the house for Mrs.

PERSHING RETIRES BUT PAY IN FULL GOES ON FOR LIFE

$10,000 a Year and Allowances Continue as in Active Service, Officials Decide.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Gen. Pershing, as a retired army officer, will receive the same pay ($10,000 a year) and allowances that were his in active service, under a decision handed down today by Comptroller-General McCarl.

The decision confirmed one by Major-General Bethel, Judge Advocate-General of the Army, which held that the act of Congress appointing Pershing, General of the armies provided full pay for life.

Gen. Bethel submitted his opinion to Secretary Weeks who, to make sure of the interpretation of the law, referred the question to the Comptroller-General.

CHIPPEWA CASHIER SENTENCED ON HIS PLEA OF GUILTY

Ruined Institution by Embezzlement of $710,000—Charge of Forgery Is Held in Abeyance.

"MY WORST HURTS ARE OVER," HE SAYS

Asserts He Suffered More Before Authorities Heard About Case Than He Ever Can Now.

Joseph S. Carr, cashier of the defunct Chippewa Bank, was formally sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Hamilton today on four charges of embezzlement which grew out of the closing of the bank last December with a loss of $710,000. He was taken to Jefferson City on an afternoon train.

The minimum sentence of two years was imposed on each count, to run consecutively. He pleaded guilty July 3, but sentences had been deferred because of his willingness to assist bank examiners in straightening the bank's tangled affairs.

Constrained to Be Lenient.

Circuit Attorney Sidener announced to the Court that he recommended the minimum on each count because of Carr's attitude of co-operation. Ordinarily in such a case he would have demanded the maximum penalty, 5 years on a count, but under the circumstances he felt constrained to be lenient.

He said Carr originally had pleaded not guilty, but on April 5 his attorney gave Sidener affidavits which admitted embezzlement. On July 3 Carr entered pleas of guilty, but Judge Hamilton deferred sentence because Carr had promised to help the Bank Commissioner.

A fifth charge, forgery in the third degree, on which Carr had refused to plead guilty, was continued generally today. Carr's attorney, Thomas B. Harlan, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that his investigation proved this charge could be successfully combated.

"It is very easy for a man in Carr's position to slip into embezzlement," Attorney Harlan said, "but forgery is much more odious because it must be deliberate. My investigation proved that we could not combat the embezzlement charges, but even the examiners said the evidence of forgery was not conclusive."

Sidener's Attitude.

The Circuit Attorney announced he was agreeable to holding the forgery charge in abeyance. "However, I want to keep it on the books and be sure Carr is in the penitentiary before I dismiss it," he said.

Circuit Attorney Sidener stated in court that he was informed Carr had co-operated to the fullest extent with the bank examiners and that it was expected depositors would be paid in full when the bank's affairs are finally settled. The loss, it has been stated, will fall on the stockholders.

Carr sat in the Sheriff's office smoking cigars while he waited for the train to Jefferson City.

"Not much use in talking about it now," he said to a reporter. "My worst hurts are over. I suffered more before the authorities heard about my case than I can ever suffer now."

"I am gratified, though, to know that the depositors will not lose a penny through me. They already have received 70 per cent of their deposits, and my personal property has not been touched. I am confident there will be something left for me."

Carr, as is known, wrecked the bank by making personal use of its deposits to further private speculation. It was a one-man bank, and Carr, as cashier and largest stockholder, was that one man. His associates had fullest confidence in his integrity, as had the neighborhood depositors. Carr was the organizer of the bank, coming to St. Louis from a small Missouri town.

Flyers Greet Man Who

By the Associated Press.
CLOVER FIELD, SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 24.—The first airplanes to encircle the earth flew home yesterday when Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, flight commander, led three world cruisers back to Santa Monica, where they were built. They had been gone 6 months and 6 days.

The "greatest reception of any place in the world" greeted the flyers. Lieut. Smith said as he got out of his airplane, Chicago, to kiss his mother. There were more than 100,000 on and around the field to roar a welcome to the flyers.

"Where's Donald Douglas; he sure has built some planes," said Lieut. Erik Nelson, engineering officer of the world flight, as he jumped from the New Orleans and quickly found the airplane maker on the field and hugged him.

Head Winds From San Diego. The world cruisers hummed their way up from San Diego against head winds following the coastline most of the time.

They flew over Los Angeles, then turned down to the field by the seashore landing in one hour and forty minutes after they hopped off from Rockwell Field, San Diego.

The multitude at Clover Field shouted and sounded motor horns as the flyers appeared over the escarpment trees on the east end of the field. Seven planes in perfect formation followed.

Gracefully the world cruisers circled over the field and leaving the escort planes high above, the three machines lined out in single file with Lieut. Smith in the lead, and they made a perfect landing.

Purses Are Presented. To the reception stand they taxied over an acre of blossoms. Official greetings were extended by military officers and Congressman John D. Fredericks, and then the flyers each were presented with a purse of $1000 from the "pioneer fund" raised here by donations.

The throngs broke beyond all control as the flyers descended from the reception platform and the proposed auto tow around the field was abandoned because of the numbers on the field.

In the crowd, which traffic officials declared was the greatest ever assembled in the Los Angeles district, were most of the prominent performers from the moving picture colonies.

The continuation of the flight was postponed until Thursday, to permit minor repairs to be made and to give the flyers a day of rest.

Davis Replying to Daugherty Repeats Charges, Retracts Nothing

HARRY M. DAUGHERTY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Following is the letter sent by John W. Davis to Harry M. Daugherty, in reply to the protest of the latter at Davis' criticism of Daugherty in his speeches.

Sir—Your letter of the 19th, addressed to myself, was handed to me upon my return to New York on the night of the 21st. I reply without delay.

You state in your letter that the reference I have made to you are "usually vague and all the more reprehensible and that my allusions to you 'are quite veiled.' You are entirely mistaken. All reference which I have made to you are both direct and specific. I beg to call your attention to this.

In my speech of acceptance I spoke of an Attorney-General, meaning yourself, "admitting bribe-takers to the Department of Justice, making them his boon companions and utilizing the agencies of the law for purposes of private and political vengeance." I went on to say, with reference to the congressional investigations, in general, that "when discovery was threatened, instead of aid and assistance from the executive branch there were hurried efforts to suppress testimony, to discourage witnesses, to spy on investigators and, finally, by trumped-up indictment, to frighten and deter them from the pursuit. The spying on Senators and Congressmen; the hasty interchange of telegrams in department code; the refusal of those accused to come forward under oath to purge themselves—all these things serve to blacken a page that was already dark enough."

These paragraphs embrace, with one exception—to which I shall refer later—the substance of what I said in these or later speeches concerning yourself.

I regret to say that I find no warrant whatever for withdrawing any single statement which they contain.

You Appear Meant. In so far as the man Gaston B. Means is concerned, I have read the repudiation of his former testimony which you inclosed in your letter. I observe that since your letter was delivered to me he has once more recanted and repudiated his repudiation. When he testified before the Brookhart committee I expressed the opinion, which I see no reason to change, that no man should be convicted of any offense on the uncorroborated testimony of a witness whose character was so generally known as his.

It was you, however, who appointed him to a confidential position in the Department of Justice. You brought him into the circle of your official intimates. You created him a Government agent. You gave him his credentials. At the time you did so his character was already notorious.

There was then no ground for the removal of Attorney-General—Real Enemies of Constitution "Corrupt and Impotent Officials."

At the time I gave voice to the opinion above quoted, I expressed a sentiment which I still entertain; that the appointment of such a man in the Department of Justice was of itself simple warrant for the summary removal of the Attorney-General by whom he was appointed.

As to the indictment against Senator Wheeler, a committee of the Senate, headed by Senator Borah, has investigated the matter, as you know, and has declared the indictment to be utterly without foundation. The significant thing, however, is that no effort to find such an indictment was made until Senator Wheeler had assumed a leading part in criticism of the administration and of yourself; that thereafter, as a result of conference between the secretary of the Republican National Committee and the chief of your Bureau of Investigation, agents of the Department of Justice, were sent to Montana, with directions to spy on investigators and, finally, by trumped-up indictment, to frighten and deter them from the pursuit. The spying on Senators and Congressmen; the hasty interchange of telegrams in department code; the refusal of those accused to come forward under oath to purge themselves—all these things serve to blacken a page that was already dark enough."

JOHN W. DAVIS.

At the request of residents of St. Louis, the Council directed installation of concrete "safety islands" outside the southwest corner of Forest Park, where Oakland, McCausland and Clayton avenues and Skinker road converge and make it dangerous for pedestrians. The islands will be 12 feet long and five feet wide.

Complaint about parking on Twelfth boulevard was made to the Council by Joseph Forshaw of the Joseph Forshaw Store and Range Co., 103 North Twelfth. He objected especially to parking at the curb, which he said is detrimental to his business. He explained customers are forced to park as far as a half mile from his place and to carry heavy iron or steel stove parts to his store.

Says It Hurts Business. "I can't park in front of Hotel Jefferson," he exclaimed. "Why should people who have no claim on me park their cars in front of my place and keep customers away?"

Forshaw was advised to circulate petitions among Twelfth boulevard merchants to ascertain their position as to parking. At present parking is permitted along both curbs and on both sides of the street car tracks.

This afternoon the Council members confer with the Police Court Judges regarding punishment of traffic law violators. It is believed that the Council will ask that stiffer penalties be assessed.

TO PROHIBIT PARKING ON ST. CHARLES ST.

Traffic Council Puts Ban of Leaving Auto Between Third and Thirteenth Streets.

Parking on St. Charles street, from Third to Thirteenth street, will be prohibited beginning next week, Chairman Brod of the Traffic Council, announced today at the council's weekly meeting.

Difficulties between rival taxicab fleets seeking fares at the St. Charles entrance to Hotel Statler have been the cause of the council's action. Smaller companies have charged the Brown and Yellow companies with monopolizing the street.

As an instance of the congestion caused by the parked taxicabs, Brod said five trucks, responding to an alarm the other night were unable to penetrate the barrier of various taxicabs which were parked facing the curb and at angles from it. He pointed out that such congestion may cause loss of lives and property.

To Install Safety Islands. At the request of residents of St. Louis, the Council directed installation of concrete "safety islands" outside the southwest corner of Forest Park, where Oakland, McCausland and Clayton avenues and Skinker road converge and make it dangerous for pedestrians. May Amputate U. S. Senator's Foot.
By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 24.—
Senator Hubert D. Stephens of Mississippi was brought to a hospital here last night suffering from blood poison which resulted from an injury to his foot several days ago. Senator Stephens' condition was described as "very serious" by hospital physicians, who said that amputation of the infected foot probably would be necessary.

"BOB" DALTON JR., SON OF NOTORIOUS ROBBER, HELD

Charged With Swindling in Texas—Had More Than $15,000 in Possession When Arrested.

By the Associated Press.
DOUGLAS, Ariz., Sept. 24.—
"Bob" Dalton Jr., son of "Bob" Dalton, the member of the Dalton gang who was killed in the robbery of a Coffeyville (Kan.) bank Oct. 6, 1932, was arrested here last night by Deputy Sheriff Dayhurst and Morris as he was about to board a train for California. His arrest followed receipt of a telegram from the Sheriff at El Paso, where he is wanted on two charges of swindling. Dalton had more than $15,- 000 in cash and checks in his possession.

Dalton admits he is the son of the notorious train robber. He has spent a great part of his life behind the bars, according to his story. He served time in Huntsville, Tex., for robbery; Leavenworth,
Kan., for horse stealing; Sioux Falls, S. D., for horse stealing, and in other institutions, officers said he told them.

HELD FOR SELLING SPOILED FISH

Two Peddlers Arrested and Wagon Load Is Confiscated.

Two peddlers were arrested and a wagon load of fish confiscated when Patrolman Bartles yesterday reported his olfactory nerves had been shocked by the odor from the wagon as the men sold the fish in the vicinity of Eighth and O'Fallon streets.
Bartles notified Pure Food Inspector Manuel Faber, who corroborated Bartles' diagnosis as to the condition of the fish. The peddlers described themselves as Thomas Meyers, 45, of 4124 Natural Bridge avenue, and William Miller, 54, 1231 North Eighth street.
The fish were destroyed.

An Announcement of Importance

An Event So Brimful of Sensations That It Is Bound to Create Enthusiasm

BARNEY'S ARMY GOODS STORE

S. E. Cor. 10th and Washington Av.
Invites You to Inspect Their New, Enlarged, Remodeled Store and Thrift Subway
THURSDAY, SEPT. 25th

TO OUR FRIENDS, PATRONS AND THE PUBLIC

During the past six years we only had temporary store locations, and we were obliged to move quite often. Less than three months ago we again were confronted with the same kind of a proposition, but after several weeks of dealing, we finally closed an 18-year lease on the entire corner of 10th and Washington, first floor and Basement. During the past eight weeks we have labored hard and earnestly to create a new kind of a store for you, spending thousands of dollars for new improvements and adding more than a dozen new and complete departments.

From our Washington avenue entrance, you will see a blaze of powerful, dazzling lights penetrating the most gorgeous aggregation of economies it has ever been our pleasure to display and offer.

We have endeavored to make this an event worthy of our achievement and have displayed throughout our big double store and bargain basement some of the biggest bargains you ever saw or bought.

Hundreds of letters of congratulation and good wishes have been received from our friends, customers, and from manufacturers and wholesalers located in all parts of the U. S. with whom we have been associated. Many of them witnessing the transformation of a small store 6 years ago, to one now known from coast to coast.

In looking back over the many stumbling blocks in our path of progress, we realize now more than ever, that the four corner stones

PRICE, TRUTH, QUALITY AND SERVICE
—laid in our business foundation years ago has been the direct cause of transforming our dreams and imaginations then, to the accomplishments of today. As we approach the opening hour, we do so with a deep sense of gratitude. In remodeling our store, our first thoughts were to build a modern store for all the people and sell them the same high-class seasonable merchandise for less money—we were not unmindful of our great obligation in any way, and it is our aim to demonstrate it in a very substantial Barney way. We again extend you a special invitation. Will you be with us Thursday?

PLAZA COURTHOUSE BOARD SEEKS AID OF CIVIC BODIES

Requests to Join Committee in Keeping Present Site Sent to Heads of Organizations.

Requests to join the Plaza Courthouse Committee, which is seeking to have the people uphold the ordinance locating the new $4,000,000 bond-issue courthouse on Memorial Plaza, in the referendum at the November election, have been sent to heads of all civic, improvement and kindred organizations in the city.

The letters requested the organization presidents to join the Plaza Courthouse Committee themselves, or to appoint representative members in their stead. Former Circuit Judge Charles W. Rutledge, chairman of the committee, said that responses received already indicate considerable public sentiment for the plaza site. The committee will enlist volunteer ward workers and provide speakers to address meetings about the courthouse site issue. Contributions for the work may be sent to the committee headquarters, 1508 Federal Reserve Bank Building.

Goodlett Heads Welfare League.
Gilbert C. Goodlett of Webster Groves, president of the Current Question Club, was elected president of the Missouri Welfare League yesterday at a luncheon meeting of directors at the City Club. He succeeds the Rev. Rufus

D. S. Putney, who resigned the presidency Sept. 12 on account of the demands of his position as superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, but remains on the board. Ernest J. Russell, an architect and president of the City Plan Commission, was elected second vice president to succeed Goodlett.

NEW JERSEY G. O. P. RENOMINATES EDGE

Senator Carries Primary Against Man Supported by Anti-Saloon League.

By the Associated Press.
NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 24.—United States Senator Walter E. Edge decisively defeated Hamilton F. Kean, national committeeman, for the Republican nomination for the United States senatorship in yesterday's primaries. He led his opponent by 52,138 votes in returns from 2383 out of 2559 election districts. The vote was: Edge, 299,641; Kean, 154,523.

Senator Edge's victory is generally considered a victory for the so-called liberal elements. Mr. Kean was supported by the Anti-Saloon League. The fight was bitter, with the prohibition question an issue. Edge's supporters had openly declared that Kean had the general following of the Ku Klux Klan. Kean had never admitted that this was true.

Senator Edge was also opposed by the Non-Partisan Campaign Committee of the American Federation of Labor. Kean had frequently asserted in the campaign that Edge had failed to stand by President Coolidge and that a change of party control was necessary.

Senator Edge, however, asserted that he had supported President Coolidge and criticized his opponents for the sort of campaign they waged.

The Rev. Dr. James K. Shields, former superintendent of the State Antisaloon League, will be an independent candidate for the Senate. Mayor F. W. Donnelly of Trenton, Democrat, and George L. Record, Jersey City independent progressive and adherent of Senator La Follette, also are candidates. Dr. Shields had announced that he would withdraw from the contest if Kean were nominated.

The first woman to enter Congress from New Jersey may have appeared in Mrs. Mary T. Norton, vice-chairman of the State Democratic Committee, who was unopposed for the nomination in a district which is normally Democratic.

What You Should Know about a baby's care

Illness is usually due to constipation.
Quickly give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

THE young mother should watch which foods the baby relishes most, which foods and their quantity cause distress, and act accordingly.

The good health of a baby is largely a matter of intelligent attention to diet. Nevertheless, in spite of your efforts you will sometimes notice belching, flatulence, wind and symptoms of colicky pain.

Give half a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and thereafter vary the offending food. Syrup Pepsin is a laxative admirably suited to infants and children, as it is mild and wholly free from opiates and narcotics.

If you delay in giving it you will soon find the baby suffering from constipation, and that may lead to more serious illness. Half a teaspoonful promptly given will avoid trouble.

Many thousands of mothers have never given their babies any other medicine but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and they have successfully raised large and sturdy families. The formula is not a secret, being a combination of Egyptian senna with pepsin, and agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. Mrs. Dewey Walker, Elida, N. M., and Mrs. B. Higginbotham, Otter Creek, Fla., are among the many who are firm believers that Syrup Pepsin has kept their families and themselves in good health.

No family with young children can afford to be without.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon

There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them try this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Syrup Pepsin Co., 218 Washington Street, Montreal, Quebec, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them postpaid by mail. Do not include postage, this free.

Such a household medicine. It is effective, beneficial and safe regardless of your age and has been considered so for over thirty years. In consequence it is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually.

You will find that Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief in the severest chronic constipation, in biliousness, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, headache, cankers, bad breath, and to stop a cold or fever.

Every druggist sells it, and the cost on the average is less than a cent a dose. It is guaranteed to be effective in these symptoms or your money will be refunded.

Don't wait for time to heal that itching rash

NEGLECT of even the slightest skin rash, roughness, chafing or soreness may have serious consequences. Painful, disfiguring complaints like eczema, ringworm, etc., all start in a small way.

The safest plan is to keep a jar of Resinol Ointment ready to use at the first sign of skin trouble. It promptly stops itching and reduces inflammation and burning. The tiny pores readily receive this soothing ointment, and its healing influence is carried far below the surface of the skin.

Resinol Soap is a favorite with those who like its soothing lather on refreshing and cleansing. At all druggists.

Says—Now Stiff Joints Must Go!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em
Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Just rub on the new application called Joint-Ease if you want to know what real joint comfort is.
It's for stiff, swollen, or pain-tured joints whether caused by rheumatism or not.
A few seconds' rubbing and it soaks right in through skin and flesh right down to ligament and bone.
It oils up and limbers up the joints, subdues the inflammation and reduces the swelling. Joint-Ease is the one great remedy for all joint troubles and live druggists are dispensing it daily—a tube for 60 cents.

Always remember when

WHEELER APPEALS FOR VOTES FOR BROOKHART

Attacks 'Robber Tariff' and G.
O. P. Treatment of Farmer in Iowa Speech.

By the Associated Press.
DAVENPORT, Ia., Sept. 24.—
Entering Iowa today, Senator Wheeler, independent vice presidential candidate, spoke last night from a Mississippi River pier to an audience on the Davenport water front. He appealed for support of Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, criticized Republican tariff policies and advocated enactment of legislation sought by some farmers' organizations. "Today the farmer, because of the robber tariff, sells everything he has upon the open market and buys everything he requires upon a highly protected market," he said.
"The representatives of the farmers of this country came to Washington last winter and sought to get legislation passed that would place them on an equal footing with the manufacturers of the East. They asked for the Norris-Sinclair bill or the McNary-Haugen bill so that the farmers of this country would derive some benefit from the tariff."

"What happened?" The reactionary Republicans joined with the reactionary Democrats and defeated and prevented any farm legislation being passed in the last session of Congress.
"If your representative in Congress or in the Senate is supporting Mr. Coolidge, ask him to tell you how he stands on the Norris-Sinclair bill or on the McNary-Haugen bill. Ask him how Mr. Coolidge stands. He can tell you how Mr. Coolidge favors special legislation for Mr. Mellon's Aluminum Trust, of which Mr. Butler, now chairman of the Republican National Committee, has been the active lobbyist and agent for a great many years, but if he knows he dare not tell you how Mr. Coolidge stands on legislation to give the farmer the same kind of protection that they deserve.
"If the people of Iowa had not sent Smith Brookhart to the Senate, and he had not acted as chairman of the Daugherty investigating committee, the country would have known much less about the Republican party."

This new way works wonder on cloudy teeth

Modern science, by perfecting a new way of combating the stubborn film that covers teeth, now opens the road to whiter teeth, safely.

THAT cloudy teeth, yellowish, discolored teeth can be made whiter is now an accepted fact. Foremost dentists of the world are widely urging this new method. You can have cleaner, prettier teeth if you will start today.

This is accomplished by combating a viscous film that covers teeth. A stubborn, hard to remove film that old type denti-fices do not fight successfully.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel this film.
Under it are the clear, attractive teeth you envy in others. Combat it, and your teeth become many shades whiter—more glistening. This offers you a 10-day test free. Mail the coupon.

The great enemy of teeth Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles.
It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Ask your druggist or mail the coupon for Pepsodent. Don't expect the same results from old time dentifrices. Begin beautifying your teeth today.

TWO ROUTES MAPPED FOR SHENANDOAH TRIP

Flight to Seattle Provided With Alternate Courses Across Continent

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Alternative routes to be taken by the naval air cruiser Shenandoah, depending upon weather conditions met on her Western trip, beginning Oct. 2, were made public yesterday by the Navy Department.
The tour has been divided into three sections. Lakehurst to Fort Worth, Tex., thence to San Diego, and finally to Seattle, the Western terminal. The route to be taken to each point, however, varies dependent upon weather conditions reported ahead.

The "good weather" route for the first section will be Lakehurst to York, Pa., to Cumberland, Md., to Dayton, O., to Paducah, Ky., to Little Rock, Ark., to Fort Worth.
The "good weather" route to San Diego will take in Abilene, Tex., Midland, Tex., Burdow, El Paso, Tucson, Ariz., Yuma, Ariz., El Centro, Cal., and San Diego.

The San Diego to Seattle jump will be the same regardless of weather conditions. From the former point the route will swing to Point Arguello, via Los Angeles, then to Monterey, San Francisco, Eureka, Astoria and thence to Camp Lewis, near Tacoma.

The bad weather route for the first section would be:
Lakehurst to Dover, Del.; Richmond, Va.; Winston-Salem, N. C.; Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham, Ala.; to Fort Worth, Tex. In the second section the only change would be from Yuma, the alternative route going by San Jacinto, Cal., instead of El Centro.

Take Both TogetherMilk of Magnesia and Mineral Oil Now Combined

One of the most important medical achievements of recent years is the combination of milk of magnesia and mineral oil. Haley's Magnesia-Oil successfully combines the two, and makes them doubly effective.

The oil carries the magnesia straight to the lower bowel, the seat of most so-called stomach trouble. All of the antacid properties of the milk of magnesia are applied to correcting the trouble at its source. Poisonous acids are neutralized, clogged tracts are lubricated—at one and the same time. Action is prompt, but devoid of griping. Delightful to take; no oily taste. Can be mixed with milk and given children without their knowledge.

Get a bottle of Haley's Magnesia-Oil today. Most druggists sell it. If yours can't supply you we will mail a bottle postpaid on receipt of price. Trial size, 50c; family size, $1. The Haley M-O Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

at Highland, Ill.Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 24.—Telegrams urging Gov. Hyde to grant a requisition for extradition of Lester Barth and Henry Konecick, now under arrest in St. Louis, who are wanted in Madison County, Ill., on charges of complicity in the robbery of the First National Bank of Highland on July 29, last were received today by the Governor from the Illinois Bankers' Association, and D. A. Wyckoff, of Alton, chairman of the Madison County Bankers' Protective Association. An indictment charges the men with obtaining $16,814 in the robbery of the bank.

Konecick has indicated he will fight extradition and a hearing will be held here, probably tomorrow. Thus far Barth has not stated whether he would oppose extradition. It was stated at the Governor's office.

J. P. Streiber of Edwardsville, prosecuting attorney, telegraphed a request to Attorney-General Barrett to have an Assistant Attorney General appear at the hearing. Streiber stated in the telegram that Konecick could be "positively identified" as one of the men participating in the robbery.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—Leo G. Woodward, prohibition agent, attached to a Washington squad operating in Baltimore, was shot through the chest today in the hallway of a dwelling he had entered to raid.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Alexander Booth, who lives two doors from the raided dwelling, was shot in the head after she had been awakened by the shots fired at Woodward and had looked out of a third-story window.

The bullets, witnesses said, were fired by a group of men who gathered on the sidewalk and fired a dozen or more shots at the raided dwelling. Physicians said Woodward's wound was not serious. Mrs. Booth will lose the sight of her left eye as a result of her wound.

"The trouble first started with a red rash that covered my face and head. Later it took the form of pimples that disfigured my face. The pimples itched and burned causing continual scratching, and the scratching caused eruptions. My hair became brittle and dry, and I lost sleep at night because of the irritation."

"A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss A. E. Don, 1391 Perry St., Davenport, Iowa.

HYDE RESPONSIBLE FOR ROAD MUDDLE, NELSON CHARGES

Democratic Nominee Says Road Building Is Not Political Issue but He Favors Proposition No. 5.

QUESTIONS SINCERITY OF G. O. P. LEADERS

Mr. Baker Never Before Has Lent Helping Hand to Progress in Solution of Highway Problems.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

The attempt of Gov. Hyde and Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for Governor, to make the failure to endorse Road Proposition No. 5 the dominant issue in the State campaign, was met last night by Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee, with the charge that Hyde and the Republican administration were directly responsible for the road muddle that necessitated the proposed amendment to provide additional funds.

Gov. Hyde and Baker in speeches at the Republican campaign opening in Sedalia Monday, charged that Nelson was opposed to the building of a connected system of hard surfaced roads, basing their arguments on the failure of the Democratic State platform to mention No. 5.

Though insisting that the building of roads was not a political question and had no right place in a political campaign, Nelson said he was in favor of the proposal to provide additional funds for roads through a tax on gasoline and through an increased State automobile registration fee. He questioned the sincerity of the Republican leaders in their present position.

Baker's "Delusion." "Mr. Baker never before to my knowledge has raised his voice or lent a helping hand to progress in the solution of highway problems," Nelson said. "He now seems to be suddenly seized with the delusion that he enjoys a monopoly on road enthusiasm, and that as a candidate he is unique in endorsing No. 5."

"He errs in this just as the man who sponsors Gov. Hyde, erred when he refused to prevent the present road muddle. At that time all the great newspapers called on the Governor to act, and many civic organizations throughout the State urged him to assume that leadership which his position as chief executive warranted, but he failed to meet the responsibility, and now we are faced with the proposal No. 5 as the best way out of the difficulty brought on by this same failure."

"It is little to be wondered that the people of the State become worried over the road muddle when matters of this kind, which have no place in a political campaign, should be pounced upon by a candidate as a means to a political end. The farmers of Missouri know where I stand on road muddle. I am for roads, not political thunder."

The Democratic nominee avoided committing himself on the present highway system, which was one of the main points in the speeches of the Republicans. They charged he was favorable to the so-called Elkhart farm-to-market road system, which would mean an expenditure of the available road funds without the building of high type roads, a charge which Nelson did not meet in his statement. Baker is pledged to oppose any change in the present highway law.

Defends Party History. Nelson sidled away from the Democratic platform pledge of reduced taxes through reduction in assessed valuation of property, which the Republicans had seized upon as the basis for an argument that such a scheme would mean that the taxes for governmental purposes would not be reduced, but that the school system of the State would be crippled by lack of sufficient funds.

Nelson said nothing about reduction in assessed valuations, but he defended the history of the party in the conduct of the public school system, and insisted that the Republicans could not successfully "indulge in the slander" that the Democratic party was unfriendly to education. "The Democratic party," he said, "will continue its fight for reduction of taxes through economies effected in running the State's business, for simplicity in government and for strict observance of the law."

State Senator Farris, former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, yesterday added another contribution to the controversy with Chairman Gary of the State Highway Commission on the subject of the management of the Highway Department and the construction of roads. At the Democratic State convention Farris had much to do with the election of the party on the road question in its platform, and in a speech charged waste and extravagance in the administration

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Reader's Appreciation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Democratic party, especially of Missouri, should congratulate the St.
Louis Post-Dispatch for its untiring and able support of the party. Its independent articles upon political issues are worthy of the careful consideration of every voter, irrespective of their political faith, both white and black. It is truly a national bureau of political information. Its articles are of sound and instructive logic on all political issues.
It has no social or color lines.

As proof, I published an article relating to the burial of an old colored preacher down in Columbia, S. C., who died at the age of 93 years. No greater honor or respect was ever shown to a member of his race than was given this aged Christian negro. During his funeral all business was suspended by proclamation of the Mayor. People from all walks of life, bootblacks and bankers, cotton pickers and plantation owners, paid a last tribute to this aged minister's memory. And this happened in a section where the color line is most rigidly drawn. But his exemplary Christian life and his obedience to his country's law won for him the respect of all the people where he lived and died.

It is a worthy lesson that should be learned by the living members of his race. And I hope those of his race who fully realize the honor bestowed upon this aged Christian minister will give serious thought to the life and character of a man of their race who received the memorial honors after his departure.

Well Worth Seeing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WENT to see "Little Robinson Crusoe" at the West End Lyric, and on my way home I thought: Now, here is a really superior picture, clean, interesting, with not a dull moment from the first to the last foot, and certainly a finished production in every sense of the word; no roles requiring especially gifted actors, but a well-rounded cast, and the whole thing a positive delight. This view was evidently shared by many others, as there was quite a bit of ap-
Imagine my astonishment, on picking up the Post-Dispatch to read what your "critic" had to say, to find that my evening had been wasted, as the picture was really not worth seeing.
"I DON'T KNOW."

Neglecting Street Repairs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THERE has been some agitation lately on the South Side about the manner in which street repairs are handled. The contention has been that the city officials let the streets that are made get into such bad shape that they cannot be repaired and that the street has to be re-made.

When the street is repaired it comes out of the general taxon fund, but when it is re-made it is assessed against the property owners along the street in question.

You will be interested in knowing that one of the streets that has been made and that is being allowed to get into such shape that it cannot be repaired, is Loulana avenue, between Lafayette and Russell. The people on the east side of Loulana as well as on the adjacent streets will have to foot the bill for a new street.

Now why is this practice allowed to continue? Are some of the people in the City Hall interested in the construction companies? Won't you send one of your reporters out there and see for yourself?
CITIZEN.

The Political Platform.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE executive board of the Republican Women's Club wishes to express deepest appreciation for the splendid publicity and attention given by your paper to our Political Platform, held at Hotel Statler Sept. 15, 14, 17. You greatly assisted in accomplishing one of our desired results, in that through your publicity of the speeches of the national and State leaders of our party who took part in the school, many women were able to read and get this information who were unable to attend the school.

Sincerest thanks is given you by the board for this splendid assistance.
MRS. CHAS. ELLIS, Chairman Publicity Republican Women's Club.

Whittier's "Poor Voter."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT is too bad that more of the voters of St. Louis have not the same feeling as Whittier's "Poor Voter on Election Day."

The greatest now is but my peer.
The highest not more high:
Today, of all the weary year,
A king of men am I.

Today, alike are great and small.
The nameless and the known:
My palace is the people's cell.
The ballot-box my throne:

This poem was used extensively by
Gov. La Follette in the campaign of 1904.
R. MOORE, JR.

MR. BAKER KNOWS.

Republican leaders of Missouri seem determined to make a political issue of the road project.
Mr. Baker, the Republican candidate for Governor, manifestly approves of that scheme. In his speech at the campaign opening at Sedalia he tried to create the impression that the Democratic party was opposed to completing the road system. He is quoted as saying of the Democrats that "they are apparently lying in wait to ambush the present State road system laid out by the Legislature." If he is sincere in his statements Initiative Proposal No. 5 is an administrative measure and is to be won or lost on a straight-out partisan appeal.

By persisting in that course Mr. Baker and his advisers may succeed in beating the proposal. Certainly No. 5 cannot be carried by Republican votes.
Unless supported by citizens of all parties the measure has not a chance to go over. If the Democrats of Missouri are driven into active opposition to the proposal by the demagoguery or ignorance of Mr. Baker and his campaign council No. 5 will unquestionably be beaten, and the State road project will be a disastrous failure.

What course should Mr. Baker pursue? The answer is easy. He ought to discuss the road question intelligently and honestly. As an intelligent man he knows that Proposal No. 5 is the only recourse left to the people of Missouri by which they can save their road project from the perilous situation in which it has been placed through the political juggery of Gov. Hyde.

As a man familiar with public affairs Mr. Baker knows that Gov. Hyde, a year ago this month, was informed as to the gravity of the road situation. The Governor's informant was his own appointee, Chairman Theodore Gary of the Highway Commission.
Mr. Baker knows that the entire Highway Commission agreed with its chairman's judgment that a special session of the Legislature would have to be called to provide the means for carrying on the Gary program of construction.

Mr. Baker knows that this suggestion for a special legislative session was urged by the Automobile Club of Missouri and by civic organizations throughout the whole State.

Mr. Baker knows that the entire State was canvassed by the Automobile Club and a great body of public sentiment enlisted and mobilized in behalf of the special session, and he knows that this section of the Automobile Club was inspired by Chairman Gary's report and, in point of truth, was taken at Chairman Gary's request.

It is true that Chairman Gary has always denied having recommended a special session, but Mr. Baker knows that such denial by Mr. Gary is plain quibbling.

Mr. Baker knows that Gov. Hyde contrived one excuse after another for refusing to obey this great public mandate and that when no more pretexts could be fished out of the hat, while the pressure for action was intensified rather than abated, Gov.
Hyde fled to Florida till the tempest should calm.

Mr. Baker knows that in refusing to call that special session of the Legislature to deal with the road crisis Gov. Hyde repudiated the Highway Commission, humiliated Chairman Gary, flouted the Automobile Club of Missouri, spurned the judgment of progressive citizenship of the whole State, and Mr.
Baker knows why. He knows that one of the pleas was that the Governor feared the Legislature might refuse to confirm certain of his appointees, one of whom has since resigned under the impulse of a grand jury indictment.

Mr. Baker knows still more about the Governor's political hamstringing of the road project. He knows that State Treasurer Thompson prepared a bluesky tale of the road project's finances, actual and prospective, pooh-poohed the impending crisis, swept aside the statements of Chairman Gary as the imaginary fears of an uninformed alarmist, told Gary, the commission, the Automobile Club and everybody else that they were all unduly excited; that everything was quite all right and that the situation could be handled satisfactorily by the session of the Legislature which would regularly meet in January, 1925.

Mr. Baker knows that Treasurer Thompson's statement was unbecomingly designed to justify Gov. Hyde's craven betrayal of the people of Missouri on this great road enterprise.

Mr. Baker knows that, if the law had not permitted Attorney-General Barrett to approve the issue of $10,000,000 of bonds in one year, the Highway Commission would now be at the end of its resources, without the necessary money to contract for mileage, and either would have to reduce and thus destroy the Gary organization or maintain it in idleness at heavy expense.

Mr. Baker, finally, knows that Proposal No. 5, which he indorses so enthusiastically, is nothing to jubilate about or to point to with pride. He knows that this proposal asks the automobile owners of Missouri to vote additional taxes on themselves in order to save the road project from the ruin that threatens it because Gov. Hyde did not have the courage and plain official honesty to assume this responsibility. Mr. Baker knows that Proposal No. 5 is an indictment of Gov. Hyde's conduct. He knows that Gov. Hyde has shifted a legislative burden on the people which an executive of real parts and encouragement and statesmanship would himself have borne.

We say that Mr. Baker knows all this. If he does not know it he has no business running for Governor. For everything Mr. Baker is here credited with knowing is known to every ordinarily well informed citizen of Missouri.

The Post-Dispatch is supporting Proposal No. 5 because, in the words of Congressman Hawes, it is the "only solution." But neither Gov. Hyde nor Candidate Baker will be permitted to make political capital out of it.

AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW.

A carpet of roses, purses of gold and platons of beautiful moving picture actresses were waiting for the army's round-the-world flyers at Clover Field, Los Angeles.

What royal welcome is this? Who but a Southern California could have conceived and carried out such a scenario? Nothing like that happened to Ma-gellan, and Columbus, they sent him to jail. Happily, these things are ordered much better now, and it almost makes one regret he did not take up aviation some years ago. A personal preference to which it would be hard to find exception would be to have Nita Naldi chained to the wheel of the air chariot as soon as it had come to a stop, and immediately before the chairman of the Reception Committee made his speech.

COURTHOUSE SITE AND REGISTRATION.

The issue of the new courthouse site will be determined at the general election in November. That is to say, it will be determined by the citizens of St.
Louis who go to their polling places within the four-day period of registration, of which the last day will be Thursday, and see that their names are enrolled on the registration books.

The city plan of St. Louis will be made or marred on Nov. 4. The people will determine, if they register and vote, whether the courthouse will be placed in the interests of the city and the public or whether it will be located to serve the interests of private property.

Those who want to take it away from the Plaza site to strengthen downtown property values at first belittled the Plaza idea which was pictured to the voters when the bonds were put to a vote. Later they contended that the old courthouse site would revert to the heirs of the donor unless used for a courthouse. Now one of them proposes a dream plaza extending from Eighteenth street to the river, including, of course, the courthouse down on Broadway.

It doesn't matter much what public reason is given for the downtown site. The alleged public reason may shift from one to another. The private reason remains the same. And private interest will see that its voting strength is registered and goes to the polling booths in November. Private interest will determine the location of the new courthouse unless public interest registers before Thursday night and then follows up registration with voting.

1912 AND 1924.

Charles Michelson of the Post-Dispatch has obtained an electoral vote forecast based on confidential reports of the status of the vote today. It was compiled by one of the party organizations for its own private use—which organization the writer does not disclose. The totals give Coolidge 231 electoral votes, Davis 204, La Follette 96. The necessary majority to elect is 268. If no candidate attains this total the election will devolve upon Congress.

It seems to us that, in the allotment of the vote by states, too little account is taken of the fact that a bare plurality swings all the electoral votes of a state to the leading candidate, though that plurality may be far under a majority. To see how a three-cornered fight, with two Republicans opposing a Democrat, may turn out we need only to turn to what happened in 1912.

The estimate reported by Michelson gives Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Ohio, with a combined electoral vote of 157, to Coolidge.

	Wilson.	Taft.	Roosevelt.
Illinois	405,048	253,612	386,478
Kansas	143,670	74,844	120,123
Michigan	150,751	152,244	214,584
New Jersey	178,289	88,835	145,410
New York	655,475	455,428	390,021
Ohio	423,122	277,066	229,327

Of these states all went for Wilson except Michigan, and in none was there a majority for any candidate.
A split in the Republican vote threw the victory to the Democrats. There are points perhaps of controlling similarity between 1912 and 1924.

THE NEXT ICE AGE.

Capt. Donald R. MacMillan, noted Arctic explorer, brings back from his latest journey into the polar regions word that the ice cap about the North Pole is growing steadily larger, and that glaciers are moving steadily southward. This information, while interesting to the layman, is of tremendous importance to the scientist.

That the earth has undergone four great ice ages and one period of prolonged chill there seems to be no doubt, if we rely upon an abundance of geological data. The last one, which some geologists say ended about 55,000 years ago, left its mark about St. Louis and all the northern part of North America. But between each of the so-called ice ages that antedated the last one, the ice caps and glaciers entirely disappeared, leaving the earth tropic and temperate over its entire surface. This probably accounts for the coal forests, the tropical flora, that have become the bituminous deposits MacMillan found 500 miles from the North Pole.

His observations seem to substantiate the opinion of some scientists that the period between ice ages is shortening, that the polar ice caps and the glaciers of the world are the shrunken remains of the last great ice age, and that the gradual enlargement of the north polar ice cap and the movement of its glaciers is the beginning of another era which eventually will see millions of square miles of the earth's surface now inhabited buried thousands of feet under huge glaciers.

But the scientist has a word of encouragement—it would be many generations before the new era arrives.

INVESTIGATING PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT.

Senator Coughlin of Michigan, who favors a modification of the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer, is at the head of the special Senate committee whose duty it is to find out why prohibition enforcement does not enforce. The National Civil Service Reform League, in a letter to Senator Coughlin, says:

All the Federal prohibition agents whose duty
it is to enforce the law are political appointees.
They are chosen not because of their fitness for the work they have to do but on account of political influence and political indorsements.

The leaders of the dominant political party—namely, United States Senators and national committees in the states—practically control these appointments. The jobs are part of their patronage.

The "dominant party," that is, the G. O. P., had a large majority in the Sixty-sixth Congress, which passed the Volstead act over President Wilson's veto.
That party has been in power ever since, and in the exercise of that power its congressional leaders created the prohibition enforcement machinery.

Under whose activities Washington, the nation's capital, is now said to be the wettest city in the country.
The population of the Federal penitentiaries has about doubled, and an appalling increase in crime and lawlessness has made life and property insecure.
It is doubtful if prohibition could be better enforced under civil service. That it will never be enforced with a unit composed of political appointees is self-evident. And the question naturally arises, did the Republican party, which is responsible for prohibition and the method of its enforcement, intend that it should be enforced? The facts would seem to prove that it did not.

THE BUCKEYE.

This but I carry in my pocket.
This buckeye brown—(pray do not mock it!)—
Will drive the rheumatism away—
So my dear father used to say.

For years he carried it; shall I
His faith and wisdom mimic?
Its potency he did not doubt,
Shall I the age-old credo flout?

Is my own notion true and chieft
Who knows what magic power may reign
In buckeye over rheumatic pain?

So, since it can't do any harm,
I'll carry still my father's charm;
Though you may think the charm a whim,
His rheumatism is gone—with him.

PLINTHURGOES.

Sir: The early Greeks held that life under the City State regime constituted the highest form of human existence.

Well, it didn't; not even for that small minority of the City State population that was non-slave. The perfectly logical but absurdly false theory of government which those great Greeks deduced from their false premise kept those City States running in vicious circles of oligarchy, tyranny and what they called democracy. It is not of record that the Greeks ever recanted the collectivist philosophy of life from which their political theory was inferred. Probably that thoughtless view of the nature of man was a carry-over from ancient tribal customs.

History dragged its weary length along.
Native seeds of individualism sprouted here and there, but never reached maturity for lack of proper cultivation.
Finally came the years of the reformation, with Luther and others emphasizing the basic fact, and the potential worth, of the individual human being. These men did not say in plain words that men may speak as they like, but no human being could by any means live anything but the individualistic philosophy of life. They did not say that any theory of government which contravened the basic individualistic postulate must be, in principle, childish nonsense and could not, in practice, permanently work; that social control to the end of social order could be defended on the ground of practical indispensability, if men as they are are to live agreeably, but that social control of the individual to the end of the vague and shifting dream of "general welfare" could not be warranted on any ground whatever.

No, those early individualists did not say these things, but their doctrine implied them. Their doctrine squared with the deepest instinct of man and we have to thank them for much.

On this view the whole controversy of individualism vs. collectivism has been puerile and blundering. Our Constitution adopted both horns of the fancied dilemma —with the natural result that our impossible attempts to "promote the general welfare"—whatever that is—are steadily ham-stringing the operation of those other and opposite functions of popular polity which the preamble of our Constitution makes mandatory upon Demos.

We'd better square ourselves as best we can with young Demos or one of these days he may do a bit of political thinking on his own, and will damage us for downright dubs.

The consensus of newspaper opinion is that Loeb and Leopold got off a little too easy. However, after having been pestered ever have a hard time telling which is which.

On the occasion of her 1024 birthday a

WHAT WE BUY IN LIFE'S MARKET.

With his unspent youth,
Like a penny in his hand,
See him stand!
There's a look on his face
Like a child that comes To the market-place
After tops and drums.

With his youth—his youth
As a thing that he can spend—See him run!
And what will he have for His bargain at the end,
When it's done?

I have asked old men,
With their empty purses,
I have heard the tale
Each one rehearsed,
And on the last page
They have all bought age.

When youth is spent,
A penny at a fair,
Of the bargains there,
There was this and that
For a price and a wage,
But when they came away
They had all bought age.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

ETHICS AND MUSIC.

THOSE who hope for a better world side of the Stix will be heartened by the growing interest in the formulation of this, that and the other profession and manufacturers' guild of ethical codes. Ut-imate economy and hence increased profits may be the paradoxically sordid impulses behind purity in business principles, but even so, anything that promotes good and the true and the beautiful is net gain for morality. When the manufacturers of band instruments agree as a body of their ethical code not to give or advertising purposes they undoubtedly affect an economy. More important than that they cease to corrupt the morals of musicians and possible customers are not flam-flamed into believing the swiftly advertised player selected his instrument on its merit. The manufacturers of band instruments have subscribed to the righteous pledge. May they live to benefit by the economy and enjoy the peace of mind that comes of a clear conscience. Believe they have ethics in mind, why not make a complete job of it and be real factors of their fellow men? Why not agree to do for the whistling in fiddles what bank has done for the spine of the musician? Why not agree to refrain from chasing of wind instruments that they refrain from playing with the cut-out organ until they can satisfy a jury of their peers that melodic murders will not be committed Why not agree to provide all saxophones with time locks that render them useless between 10:30 p. m. and 10:30 a. m.? No mention has been made of the desirability of manufacturing laughless trombones and wall-less clarinets.

RETURN OF OUR TOURISTS.

From the Manchester Guardian.
THE return of the straw-batted and horn-spectacled goes on apace. Both the British and the American lines are taking the tourists back across the Atlantic as fast as the crowded liners can do it. About 1500 Americans left on the Majestic Saturday morning and about the same number will be leaving every week by Cunard lines until well into September. All the evidence is that the Americans have been spending freely in London this year, and there probably never was a time when we entertained so many millionaires. The return passage to America on a recent departing liner of one family alone cost $1200. This family consisted of eight people, with the accompanying of four governesses, four valets and two maid servants.

THE BUSY PARSON.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.
EVERY pastor in the country, in morning papers say, "will be called to preach an election sermon on Christian-citizenship on the Sunday before election day." We are also told that every pastor in the country will be asked to preach a sermon on Near East relief sometime this autumn. Every pastor in the country is also asked to preach on Election day, or on Peace day, or on Columbus day, or on clean-up week, and on law enforcement week. So far as we have heard no pastor has yet been asked to preach apple week nor on cancer week, but we too will doubtless come in time.

GANZ WILL PLAY WORK GLORIFYING AN ENGINE

Honegger's "Pacific 321" Is on Orchestra List, Says Director in New York.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Rudolph Stern, director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, who arrived late Monday with Mrs. Ganz on the summer Lafayette, told a Post-Dispatch correspondent that modern music has run its course, and that he will play many compositions by Bach and Handel on his St. Louis programs this winter.
At the same time, he expressed enthusiasm over a work called "Pacific 321," a glorification of a Union Pacific locomotive, by Honegger, a Swiss composer, who was a member of the futuristic "Les Six" group in Paris. Mr. Ganz brought the score with him, and will perform it in St. Louis.

"The inspiration for this work," explained he, "was derived from a photograph of a great locomotive which Honegger had hanging in his room. The music is not a literal description of the motion and noise of a locomotive, but a total expression of its power. It is a tribute to the genius of the creator of this mighty machine, and the musical is thrilling."

Handel Revived in London.
The most noticeable thing in Europe, and particularly in England, continued the director, is a trend toward the old music. He found Handel's compositions so popular with London audiences that invariably the last movement of the various works had to be repeated.

"Modern, or futuristic music," he said, "has about run its course;
perhaps I should say has found its place. Public taste in Europe has gone back to the elegance and purity of the old masters. Not that it condemns modern music. But futuristic music is much like futuristic art generally. You may detect beauty in the original picture of you will not find much to delight the eye in an imitation. The imitations of modern compositions have not been good, and they will be abandoned. Only what is worthy will be retained.

GANZ WILL PLAY WORK GLORIFYING AN ENGINE

Honegger's "Pacific 321" Is on Orchestra List, Says Director in New York.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Rudolph Ganz, director of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, who arrived late today with Mrs. Ganz on the steamer Lafayette, told a Post-Dispatch correspondent that modern music has run its course, and that he will play many compositions by Bach and Handel on his St. Louis programs this winter. At the same time, he expressed enthusiasm over a work called "Pacific 321," a glorification of a Union Pacific locomotive, by Honegger, a Swiss composer, who was a member of the futuristic "Les Six" group in Paris. Mr. Ganz brought the score with him, and will perform it in St. Louis.

"The inspiration for this work," explained he, "was derived from a photograph of a great locomotive which Honegger had hanging in his room. The music is not a full description of the motion and sound of a locomotive, but a total expression of its power. It is a tribute to the genius of the creator of this mighty machine, and the machine are thrilling."

Handel Revived in London. The most noticeable thing in Europe, and particularly in England, continued the director- pianist, is a trend toward the old music. He found with London audiences that invariably the last movement of the various works had to be repeated.

"Modern, or futuristic music," he said, "has about run its course. I should say it has found its place. Public taste in Europe has come back to the elegance and purity of the old masters. Not that I condemn modern music. But futuristic music is much like futuristic art generally. You may detect beauty in the original picture of a 'Lafayette Downstairs,' but you will not find much to delight the eye in an imitation. The imitation of modern compositions have not been good, and they will be abandoned. Only what is worthy will be retained."

"I expect to play a lot of Handel this winter, and Bach, too. I know our St. Louis audiences will receive this fine old music with as much enthusiasm as it won in London."

To Play Deems Taylor's Suite. The director said he expected to continue his policy of affording performances of the works of American composers. One of the novelties listed is Deems Taylor's suite, "Through the Looking Glass," based on "Alice in Wonderland." A full-length symphony, by Howard Hanson, will also be played. He was the winner of a scholarship prize at the American Academy in Rome.

The conductor also stated that he brought with him a quantity of exceptionally attractive music for the 18 children's concerts scheduled for this season. In addition to concertos by the St. Louis Board of Education, he said that the orchestra is planning a season for a group of 12 private schools.

Ganz brought with him a portable organ, which he will present to the Symphony Society. This instrument will not only be played in St. Louis, but will be taken on tour, enabling the director to include compositions with organ parts on his out-of-town programs.

Ganz said that the orchestra is in excellent health, and that he would arrive in St. Louis the latter part of this week.

SOCIETY WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN MORGUE, KILLED BY AUTO

Mrs. Marion Randolph's Disappearance Discloses Her Death in Accident in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Marion Randolph, 68 years old, society woman and child welfare worker in this city for years, was killed by an automobile Saturday and her body remained unidentified in the morgue until late yesterday.

Identification was made by Mrs. Elliott Smith, a niece, with whom Mrs. Randolph was to have taken luncheon on the day she was killed.

Mrs. Randolph, a widow, left her home shortly after noon Saturday. She was wearing Madison Avenue at Fifty-third street when she was struck. Her skull was fractured.

Patrolman had Mrs. Randolph taken to Flower Hospital, where she died within an hour. The coroner's office is retaining custody of the body, as it was taken to the morgue as that of an unidentified person.

Mr. Smith thought nothing of her aunt's failure to keep the appointment, but Mrs. S. Oakley Van der Grinten, who lives at 100 West 10th street, told Mrs. Randolph failed to come a promised visit, telephoned Mr. Smith to ascertain the reason.

TO BE WED SATURDAY

MISS EVELYN WISSMATH.

—Moon Photo.

THE marriage of Miss Wissmath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will C. Wissmath, and Earl V. Gauger of Charles City, Ia., will take place Saturday at the residence of her parents, 3211 University street.

Social News

TWO evening weddings of social importance are on today's calendar. Miss Prudence Alexis Lucas, daughter of Mrs. James Hunt Lucas, will become the bride of Jesse Powell Henry, son of Jesse W. Henry of Jefferson City, Mo., at 7 p. m., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lucas, 4370 McPherson avenue, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Mr. J. J. Tannath, pastor of the St. Louis Cathedral, will officiate. Miss Jane Henry of Jefferson City, sister of the groom, will be the bride's only attendant. Carl Daniels will serve Mr. Henry as best man.

Miss Lucas will be given away by her uncle, Mr. Lucas. Following the ceremony there will be a reception. After their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Henry will reside in St. Louis.

Another wedding of today, that of Miss Louise Rogers Lake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Lake of 4360 Westminister place, and John Preston Phillips of New York City, will be at Christ Church Cathedral at 8 p. m. with the Rev. Dr. McFerridge of St. Michael and All Angels' Church officiating.

Mrs. Duncan Meier, the bride's sister, will be matron of honor. Miss Katherine Engel, Jane Nugent, Jane Rule and Pamela Harrison will be bridesmaids.

Mr. Phillips will be attended by his brother, Richard O. Phillips of New York City, as best man. Two of the groomsmen, George Sage and William Crollus, are also from New York City. Duncan Meier, Durand Nugent and Frederick C. Lake Jr. will be groomsmen. A reception at the residence of the bride's parents will follow the church ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will be at home after Nov. 1 at 2 Grace court, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Harvey G. Mudd will entertain at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at her residence, 47 Vandewater place, the women who will be team captains and workers in the Bishop Tuttle Memorial and Endowment Fund Campaign.

Mr. Mudd is chairman of the Women's Committee for the memorial drive. Among the women who will attend are Mmes. Frank V. Hammar, Robert Burkhman, Goodman King, Frederick von Winderger, A. C. Chertoni, J. K. Hobbittelle, Theodore Barstow, D. O. Ives, Kent Jarvis, F. H. Littlefield, James A. Sedgwick, Albert Stitz, Elias Michael, T. Fitzgibbon, Turner, E. F. Cushing, C. R. Sheldon, Guthrie McConnell and Misses Clara Leethe, Anna Mason and Evelyn Stewart.

Announcement has been made by Judge and Mrs. Virgil Rule of Westminster place of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Amy Rule, and Morgan Colt Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colt Day of 5117 Westminister place. Miss Rule is a graduate of Mary Institute and spent last year in Europe. Mr. Day is a Princeton man and a member of the University Club and the Bellevue Country Club.

Mrs. Eugene Townner, Seneseny, 4555 Pershing avenue, and family, who spent the summer at Northport Point, Mich., returned Monday.

Mrs. Talton T. Francis and children, 210 North Newstead avenue, have returned from Michigan where they spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Steiner have moved into their new home at 6222 Faulkner drive, Ellenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hodgeman, 5379 Waterman avenue, have sent out invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Donaldson Hodgeman, and William M. E. Freeman of Brookline, Mass., which will take place Monday evening, Oct. 9, at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels. A reception at the Hodgeman residence will follow the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Herker, 4209 Lindell boulevard, spent last week-end at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago.

Mrs. David O. Ives and daughter, 5739 Cates avenue, returned Monday.

COUSIN OF PRINCE OF WALES VISITS U. S.

Marquess of Milfordhaven—Viscount Alderney—Joins Marchioness in New York.

—Moon Photo.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Marquess of Milfordhaven, peer of the royal blood of England and cousin of the Prince of Wales, arrived here yesterday on the Majestic from Southampton. The Marquess is also Sir George Mountbatten, Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order, Earl of Medina and Viscount Alderney. He is styled "Most Honorable," and is addressed officially by the British Crown as "Our right trusty and entirely beloved cousin."

In England he may not be arrested in civil action and is privileged to sit covered in the courts of British justice.

His brother, Lord Louis Mountbatten, was in this country at the same time as the Prince of Wales. One of his brothers-in-law is Prince Andrew of Greece; the other is Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden. The Queen of Spain is his cousin.

He is the Second Marquess. His wife is the younger daughter of the Grand Duke Michael Michaelovitch of Russia and the Countess de Torby. He is 32, and is the second Marquess of Milfordhaven. His father was Prince Louis of Battenberg, who relinquished the German designations of "Serene Highness," "Prince" and "Battenberg" and assumed the surname "Mountbatten" by royal license in 1917. To replace the German titles, he was immediately created Viscount Alderney, Earl of Medina and the First Marquess of Milfordhaven.

The first Marquess resigned his post as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty in October, 1914, because of the jingoistic suspicion that attached to his German name, although the injustice of the suspicion was later made clear.

In 1921, although he had retired from the British navy, he was promoted to the honorary dignity of Admiral of the Fleet. He died the same year.

The wife of the late Marquess was his cousin, Princess Victoria, eldest daughter of Grand Duke Louis IV of Hesse and of Princess Alice, daughter of Queen Victoria. His eldest son, the present Marquess, is, therefore, the great-grandson of Queen Victoria.

Prince Henry was his Uncle. The uncle of the present Marquess was Prince Henry of Battenberg, who married Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of Queen Victoria, and whose daughter, Victoria, is now Queen of Spain. His son is the present Marquess of Cambridge.

Gen. Bullard said last night he had heard the Mayor's censorship mentioned, but had received no official information concerning it.

Admiral Plunkett said he had not been officially apprised of the Mayor's desire for him to act but that his attention had been called to "What Price Glory" as a reflection on the marine service.

Letter From Navy Man. It was reported that the Mayor's letter was inspired by a communication from C. L. Arnold, an officer in the Navy intelligence service.

An attempt to close "The Demi-Virgin" was overruled by the appellate division, but the producers feared a police warning to change certain lines. A similar warning was given to producers of "Artists and Models" last year. Various persons connected with "The God of Vengeance" were fined because of allegedly blasphemous passages.

"Rain," which contains profanity and deals with the acts of a minister distasteful to the cloth, has aroused much criticism but no action has followed.

BOSTWICK TO ATTEND SESSION

Will Attend Meeting of American Library Institute.

Arthur E. Bostwick, librarian of the Public Library, will attend the meeting of the American Library Association at Lake Placid, N. Y., Friday, where he will make an address on the nationwide survey of American libraries now being carried on under his supervision for the American Library Association.

The director of the survey is C. Seymour Thompson, with headquarters in St. Louis. Thompson recently came here to take charge, having resigned as librarian of the Savannah (Ga.) Public Library. Funds for the survey have been supplied by the Carnegie Corporation.

Three valuable paintings were bequeathed to the City Art Museum, and bequests aggregating $500 are left to institutions here and elsewhere. In addition the will provides that $500 is to be added to the Joseph R. Rice fund, which was created to assist worthy persons to pay their rent.

Charles M. Rice is named as executor. Mr. Rice died Sept. 13 on board an ocean liner while en route home from Europe.

Miss Marion Louise Martin of Woodlawn, Kirkwood, will return this week from a four weeks' visit with friends in Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Stratford Lee Martin of Webster Park have returned from a motor trip East. Miss Katherine Morton and Stratford Jr., who spent the season at a camp on Lake Champlain, returned with their parents.

HYLAN SEEKS ACTION AGAINST SOME PLAYS

"What Price Glory" Believed to Be Reason of Call for Conference.

Merchants to Co-operate in Scheme Along Line of Parade.

Merchants and building owners along the line of march of the Veiled Prophet parade are co-operating in a scheme of street decoration for St. Louis' reception of the Mysterious Monarch, Oct. 7 and 8, the Veiled Prophet colors will be combined with flags and bunting in red, white and blue, to be hung from trolley guy-wires along the line of march and on other streets.

A round trip rate of one and a half fare to St. Louis and return has been granted by the railroads.

Of course, we should be broad-minded, and priggery ought to have no place in our attitude toward the stage. We are not, however, called upon to countenance the crossed vulgarity and almost absolute nakedness. Theatrical managers of shows of such a character are inviting disaster for the honest producers who will have nothing to do with such a situation.

"It would be much better to have self regulation than censorship. The theatrical managers are entitled to an opportunity to correct conditions. Why not bring them together and place the matter squarely before them? I am sure they will listen to sound, well-intentioned advice. A reluctance to do so may start a crusade which will do as much mischief to all connected with the theater as certain plays are now alleged to be doing to the properties."

"Enclosed you will find a copy of objections to a play now running in this city. I wish you would call a conference of Admiral Plunkett, General Bullard and the Police Commissioner to see what can be done to eliminate the very objectionable features complained of."

Gen. Bullard said last night he had heard the Mayor's censorship mentioned, but had received no official information concerning it.

Admiral Plunkett said he had not been officially apprised of the Mayor's desire for him to act but that his attention had been called to "What Price Glory" as a reflection on the marine service.

Gen. Bullard said last night he had heard the Mayor's censorship mentioned, but had received no official information concerning it.

Admiral Plunkett said he had not been officially apprised of the Mayor's desire for him to act but that his attention had been called to "What Price Glory" as a reflection on the marine service.

Letter From Navy Man. It was reported that the Mayor's letter was inspired by a communication from C. L. Arnold, an officer in the Navy intelligence service.

An attempt to close "The Demi-Virgin" was overruled by the appellate division, but the producers feared a police warning to change certain lines. A similar warning was given to producers of "Artists and Models" last year. Various persons connected with "The God of Vengeance" were fined because of allegedly blasphemous passages.

VEILED PROPHET DECORATIONS

Merchants to Co-operate in Scheme Along Line of Parade.

Merchants and building owners along the line of march of the Veiled Prophet parade are co-operating in a scheme of street decoration for St. Louis' reception of the Mysterious Monarch, Oct. 7 and 8, the Veiled Prophet colors will be combined with flags and bunting in red, white and blue, to be hung from trolley guy-wires along the line of march and on other streets.

A round trip rate of one and a half fare to St. Louis and return has been granted by the railroads.

Of course, we should be broad-minded, and priggery ought to have no place in our attitude toward the stage. We are not, however, called upon to countenance the crossed vulgarity and almost absolute nakedness. Theatrical managers of shows of such a character are inviting disaster for the honest producers who will have nothing to do with such a situation.

"It would be much better to have self regulation than censorship. The theatrical managers are entitled to an opportunity to correct conditions. Why not bring them together and place the matter squarely before them? I am sure they will listen to sound, well-intentioned advice. A reluctance to do so may start a crusade which will do as much mischief to all connected with the theater as certain plays are now alleged to be doing to the properties."

"Enclosed you will find a copy of objections to a play now running in this city. I wish you would call a conference of Admiral Plunkett, General Bullard and the Police Commissioner to see what can be done to eliminate the very objectionable features complained of."

LEAGUE MAKING CLEAR THE WAY FOR CONFERENCE

Two Most Important Commissions Are Discussing Arbitration, Security and Disarmament Pact.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 24.—The two most important commissions of the fifth assembly of the League of Nations sat down today to an article-by-article discussion of the projected protocol on arbitration, security and disarmament framed by Dr. Benes of Czechoslovakia, and his sub-committee, the "Big Twelve."

The third or disarmament commission begins its review of the whole text at 10:30 o'clock this morning while the first, or arbitration commission, opened its sessions at 3:30 p. m.

Meanwhile, the assembly is dealing with the routine matters which still clog the agenda, and the lobbies are eagerly awaiting news of Germany's definite application for league membership. The prospects early today were that there was no chance of adjustment before the middle of next week.

The proceedings of the disarmament commission were opened this morning by former Minister of Finance Koumanudi of Jugo-Slavia, who proposed that toleration of acts of armed bands such as border raiders, should be considered as an act of aggression and specified as such in the projected protocol.

Action on Border Raiders.
Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia, accepted this suggestion as worthy of incorporation in the protocol, although he pointed out that in general cases of the kind mentioned by the former Jugo-Slavian Minister were already covered by the present text of the draft protocol.

Gen. de Marinis set forth Italy's objection to an overtight control system during the arbitration period, pointing out the difficulties of operating such a system, but Paul Boncour of France said that his delegation would have to make reservations on this point. The French spokesman emphasized the need for stringent control to insure that neither of two states, which might be parties to arbitration could take advantage of a delay in rendering judgment to arm secretly. Boncour, however, agreed to allow a solution of the control question to go over until the convocation of the disarmament conference.

The commission agreed to the Boncour proposal after a lengthy debate devoted to co-ordination of the Italian and Franco-British points of view. Boncour and Arthur Henderson, British Secretary for Home Affairs, supported the general thesis that the forthcoming disarmament conference should be given as free a hand as possible, avoiding anything mandatory in the text of the protocol. To this the Italians finally agreed after considerable discussion.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The German Government today began the task of drawing up a memorandum setting forth the conditions under which Germany will, in conformity with yesterday's cabinet decision, apply for membership in the League of Nations. The memorandum will be sent to all of the Governments that are members of the League Council.

The memorandum, it is understood, will ask definite enlightenment as to whether Germany will be offered a permanent seat in the Council of the League, and it will expressly declare that Germany's entry into the league would in no way imply reaffirmation of her war guilt.

It is understood that the memorandum will request information as to the obligations Germany would undertake through membership, especially regarding the transport of foreign troops through Germany for the assistance of a neighboring State that might be attacked by a third Power.

675 CASES OF BEER TAKEN FROM TRUCKS AND BOX CAR

Four East St. Louis detectives, making their rounds of the city yesterday, saw a saloon keeper drive toward a siding on the Illinois Central Railroad tracks a mile south of the city shortly after noon. They followed and saw two trucks drive away from the box car. Investigation showed that the trucks contained real beer. Three truck drivers were arrested and 675 cases of beer confiscated from the trucks and the box car. The saloon keeper was not arrested.

There was nothing with the shipment to indicate where it came from or to whom it was consigned. Group Chief Scruggs, in charge of prohibition enforcement in East St. Louis, is attempting to trace the shipment to its source.

The three men arrested gave their names as Frank Wakeman, 1619 North Broadway, St. Louis; J. Jones, 1023 North Tenth street, East St. Louis, and John Gilbert, 2510 North Nineteenth street, St. Louis. All declined to discuss the case.

Wakeman's truck carried the name of the Morgan Express Co. on the side, and that driven by Gilbert, the name of R. O'Brien Moving Co.

At the Illinois Central freight office it was said today that there was no way of tracing the beer shipment through the St. Louis office.

DIRIGIBLE TRIP TO POLE FEASIBLE, SAYS MACMILLAN

Arctic Explorer Predicts Such a Voyage Will Be Made on Two-Weeks Schedule.

WHAT HE LEARNED ABOUT RADIO

Says Aurora Borealis Does Not Affect Transmission, but Colliding Air Currents May.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Some day soon a dirigible will leave New York, go over Alaska, sweep north and photograph a supposed new continent which the eye of man never before has seen, sail over the North Pole, thence southward over Baffin's Land, and on the homeward journey turn a camera eye upon the interior of Labrador, which only Indians have seen.

The schedule will be from one to two weeks. During that time the air explorers will be in constant communication with all points east, south and west by short wave length radio, and will return humming the latest jazz hit of Broadway.

Capt. Donald MacMillan, who left his Arctic ship, the Bowdoin, in Wiscasset, Me., came down to the radio world's fair last night and drew that picture for the thousands gathered to hear him.

"It is entirely feasible and it should be done," said Capt. MacMillan, "and can be done within the next two years."

It was the first time radio fans had heard the explorer in person, although millions have followed his course through the cold winds of the Arctic zone. Seven or eight months ago the chief sport of the radio amateurs was "trying to get MacMillan." Many did and in some instances boys operating home-made sets noted thousands of words from the frozen North where he was fast in the ice.

Aurora and Radio.
Contrary to expectations, MacMillan told his audience, the Aurora Borealis has no effect on radio transmission. In fact, he said, he got the best transmission in the midst of the most spectacular displays.

"We could get stations in Western United States and in Honolulu, but the East was dead," he said. "It is a phenomenon we cannot explain," said the explorer, who added that at some periods static was bad. He explained that it may have been caused by particles of snow constantly blowing over the surface of snow and ice. This develops, he pointed out, electricity through friction.

"There is also a possibility that it may have been caused by the meeting of air currents of different temperature. Over our heads blew air that had swept across 5000 square miles in a temperature of 80 degrees below zero. This air swept out to the sea where, at open water, it met a temperature of 23 degrees.

WIMER URGES ACTION ON RAPID TRANSIT PLAN

Alderman Proposes Formation of Committees to Arouse Sentiment in City.

Formation of committees in all parts of the city to organize sentiment for a proposed $100,000,000 rapid transit system was suggested by Alderman Samuel L. Wimer in an address before members of the Civic Club at the City Club yesterday.

Wimer is chairman of the Transit Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which returned last week from a tour of inspection of rapid transit facilities in large Eastern cities. The committee's report on its findings, the substance of which was published in the Post-Dispatch last Friday, will be presented to the Board of Aldermen next Friday with a recommendation that $25,000,000 be appropriated for an expert survey of transit conditions and possibilities here.

"City Ripe for Rapid Transit."
"St. Louis is ripe for rapid transit, whether it be subway or elevated, or both," Alderman Wimer said. "I intend to devote all of my next term, if again elected to it, to the promotion of the rapid transit idea."

The $100,000,000 figure, which is a tentative estimate, will not be too much, Wimer said, explaining the cost for each mile of subway approximately $1,000,000, and elevated, $1,000,000. These 12 miles of subway in the downtown district, as proposed, would require more than half of the estimated total cost.

A bond issue will be floated for the transit system, Wimer continued. In this connection, Wimer said he has been repeatedly asked, "Who's going to handle the money?" He suggested a Rapid Transit Commission. Such a commission, he argued, could make an arrangement with the operating company to reduce the bonds out of the revenue without increasing fares. Lowered operating costs would make this possible, he asserted. The city would merely be lending its credit to make possible construction of the system.

Will Aid Merchants.
Abutting property owners probably will be asked to pay part of the system's cost. Wimer pointed out that rapid transit will benefit downtown stores, for instance, and cited the case of Wanamaker's in Philadelphia, where, he said, subway trains daily bearing 75,000 to 200,000 persons always stop.

Mayor Kiel was quoted by Wimer as saying he "believed the rapid transit program all the way."

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, who accompanied the Aldermen on the inspection tour, said criticism of the cost of that tour was "small-town piker stuff." He declared the tourists worked hard while away from St. Louis, inspecting subway and elevated systems, and conferring with municipal officials and technical experts.

C. E. Smith, city consulting engineer, who also made the inspection tour, said the $100,000,000 figure was conservative in comparison with expenditures other cities have made and are now making. The system will take 10 years to complete here, he said, and will then represent an investment of $100,000,000 or less, for each resident of St. Louis. Investments in other cities for rapid transit, he said, average about $200 to each resident.

W. U. STUDENTS' AID PLAN PUT INTO EFFECT

Association This Year Selecting 15 or 20, to Whom Tuition Will Be Advanced.

With plans to campaign for a $100,000 loan fund to aid worthy and needy students in securing a college education, the group of business and professional men, comprising the Washington University Students' Loan and Scholarship Association, have begun selecting the young men and women to receive their assistance.

While the fund is still small, consisting mostly of promises, the organization expects to advance tuition for between 15 and 20 students who otherwise would not attend Washington University this year. By Dec. 1 they hope to have a fund of $100,000, mainly a permanent and revolving fund of $2,000,000.

This week in the office of Circuit Judge Calhoun, the selection committee has been examining applications. So far 20 have been questioned and seven have been convinced the committee they are deserving of the association's assistance. The approved applicants are now attending Washington on their oral promises that they will ultimately repay the sums advanced for tuition.

Girl to Be Aided.
Among those who have been promised the association's assistance is a 21-year-old girl who came two years ago from a small Missouri town. She has gone through Harris Teachers' College, earning board and lodging by doing housework in a West End family. In summer she earns a domestic's wage and saves enough to buy clothes. By having her tuition paid, she can work toward a degree and continue in her employment.

Other cases: Second-year medical student, father crippled, mother in poor health. An elder sister supports the family, and the student, with tuition paid, can support himself by odd jobs. He worked at manual labor in spare time last year.

Minister's son, a member of family of seven, supported by the small salary of the pastor of a small church. Student can support self and mother on a small salary, with tuition paid by the association.

Editor of a school paper who lost about $1000 in a business venture last year. He has always paid his own way and plans this year to earn enough to pay odd debts, borrowing from the association for current tuition.

Second-year law student attends morning and evening classes, earning $15 a week by working six hours a day in a downtown store, and contributes $15 a week to his room and board. He has a call to the ministry, and hopes to repay by vacation work next year.

The loan association is the culmination of a wish expressed by Frank O. Watter, president of the First National Bank, at a dinner in honor of Chancellor Hadley last October. The Selection Committee, Judge Calhoun, Dean Isaac Lippincott of the School of Commerce and Finance, and William C. Connett—investigates each individual applicant and insists on a high grade of scholarship and indorsement by teachers.

The plan is to ultimately have a large fund, the income of which will be sufficient to cover all loans requested. In each case the recipient is required to sign nothing but only promising to repay when he can, so that some other needy student can receive the same advantage. Jacob M. Lashly is president of the association, Francis R. Stout secretary and Dr. W. P. Gehart treasurer.

KLANSMEN SALT OF THE EARTH, SAYS EVANS

Imperial Wizard Also Asserts Klan Is Last Refuge of American Patriotism.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 24.—The Ku Klux Klan was held up as "the last refuge of American patriotism, worthy of the name" by Imperial Wizard Hiram Wesley Evans, in addressing the second imperial meeting of the order here today. "Klansmen and klanswomen are verily 'the salt of the earth' upon whom depends the future of civilization," he declared.

Asserting that the future of America and the white race "hangs in the balance," Evans said that "the blood which produces human leadership must be protected from inferior blood and from the competition which saps the vitality of leadership because it makes the struggle for existence such a burden that people stagger under it."

"You," he told his Klan auditors, "are of this superior blood, you are more—you are leaders in the only movement in the world at present which exists solely to establish a civilization that will insure these things."

Nordic and Anglo-Saxon.
History has proved and is proving daily, the speaker declared, that only Nordic and Anglo-Saxon peoples have reached a "high level of intelligence."

Turning to immigration, the Imperial Wizard said: "The undesirable hordes from other lands are driving to our sides the millions, who for one reason or another, have been hesitating. Every attack upon the Klan makes more clear-cut the issue of Americanism against alienism."

"Millions of Americans are in arduous quest of leadership to better government, adequate law enforcement, the elevation of society and a more perfect national patriotism. The Klan alone supplies that."

Warning klansmen not to underestimate the strength of the position "to the forward march of the Klan," Evans said: "When persecution failed, our enemies resorted to direct terrorism. They started a series of riots which has shed blood and disgraced our country throughout the spring and summer, and it is still in evidence—perhaps to remain for some time to come. Most of the attacks were planned and directed by the same forces which were behind the earlier form of persecution. Some, it must be acknowledged, have been the product of racial instincts—hostile to Americans and everything American."

Klan and Religion.
The Imperial Wizard declared that the outside world "will eventually know that Klansmen do not hate Roman Catholics, Jews, negroes or aliens."

"The Klan's fight," he continued, "is not with the people, but with systems and institutions and principles which run counter to Anglo-Saxon instinct, American and Protestant Christianity. The Klan does not exist to command people in their religious beliefs. Our watch cry is 'Back to the Constitution.'"

"The Constitution of the United States tolerates creeds, but it favors none. Hence, the only Catholic Church is the Roman Catholic Church. It is that she alone, mediating in American politics and that she come down from her self-erected pedestal of special privilege."

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS CHEER RAP AT LA FOLLETTE

Speaker Terms Senator "Renegade Republican" and Says Party Is Well Rid of Him.

By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The duty of the Republican party in the present election "is to keep America, to keep it as we have known it, not as it would become if its people pursued phantoms here and abroad or if the Bryans and La Follettes were allowed to work their will," said Former State Senator Nathaniel A. Elsborg today in his address as chairman of the Republican State convention.

"The Republicans," said Mr. Elsborg, "were glad to have their enemies out in the open, and I, for one, am grateful that Senator La Follette has now done nominally what he did long ago actually and that the Republicans are rid of him at last."

The speaker referred to Senator La Follette as "a hybrid" and a "renegade Republican" and the other a "renegade Democrat."

Theodore Roosevelt, who is considered the leading aspirant for the governorship nomination, continued today to bear the brunt of the campaign attacks of other candidates. Col. William Hayward of New York, Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of New York, and Guy B. Moore, District Attorney of Erie County, each made Roosevelt the target of their campaigns.

Mapping Alaska's Minerals.
Geological Survey Starts Twenty-Sixth Year of Work.
Correspondence of the Associated Press.
JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 23.—The twenty-sixth consecutive years of investigating mineral resources in Alaska has been started by the Geological Survey, announced the Department of Interior.

The Geological Survey has mapped the topography and geology of more than one-third of the territory. It has investigated every productive mining district in a preliminary way and has mapped a few in detail. Since 1905 it has published annually statistics of mineral production. Altogether, 250 reports have been published and more than 400 maps issued on Alaska's mineral production.

and take her place alongside the Methodist, Baptist and other churches.

"The Klan believes in the upbuilding of the American nation—founded as history," emphatically declares, on the supremacy of the white race, the genius of the Nordic and Anglo-Saxon peoples, and the free private interpretation of God's word."

"The Lord has guided us and shaped the events in which we rejoice," said Evans. "His hand has been under our protection. The fact that we have this divine guidance and protection should and must increase our faith in the Klan—in its growth in grace and power, in its mission, in its final complete victory."

Several thousand delegates met behind barred doors in Convention Hall yesterday. A declaration by Evans, given out, was that the Klan "is not in politics, neither is it a political party." The wizard's statement said that the national platform of the Democratic and Republican parties "provide a home in either party for the conscientious klansmen thereof." He added that klansmen as individual citizens "naturally belong to one or the other of these great political parties."

"Where our conscience leads us, we will be found," the statement said.

MANCHURIAN WAR MAKES RUSSIAN TRIP

Chang Concludes Pact Which Protects Railroad During War With Peking.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—The Russian Eastern Railway administration organization which is facing a war situation in Northern China, says that Chang Tso-shan, head of the Manchurian army, has again been ordered to suspend his bombing of Peking, though he is insisting that the airman will touch the foreign legation.

TOKIO, Sept. 24.—Late Japanese dispatches from Mukden confirm previous reports that Chang Tso-shan, the Manchurian leader, has made an agreement with the Soviet Government, which covers the Russian Eastern Railway and includes the recognition of the Soviet Government. The agreement agrees not to take action against the railroad.

Chang is at war with Peking. The agreement, it is said, was made between Chang and a representative of the Soviet Government, Peking by L. M. Karakhan, the Soviet ambassador to Peking.

Apparently Chang, fearing pressure from the Soviet Government, accepted an agreement regarding the Chinese Eastern Railway station that negotiated at Peking between the Central Government and Karakhan, which he had previously refused to recognize. Chang said that he has recognized the Russian agreement, declaring that he has made a separate one more favorable to his interests. It is expected, however, according to the dispatches from his capital, that he has bought off the Soviet in this manner.

Under the agreement reached at Peking on May 21 Russia agreed to permit China to reduce the Russian Eastern Railway, built by Russia, largely with foreign capital, during the Russo-Japanese war, will transfer to China all its shares and bonds. The amount to be paid for these and the provision transfer remained to be adjusted.

Russia assumed responsibility of the claims of stockholders, bondholders and creditors of the railway prior to the Russian Revolution in 1917. China and Russia, under the agreement, are to divide the railway's future in the exclusion of other nations. The present management, where prejudicial to either party, will be continued temporarily.

Lull in Fighting Before Heavy Attack Expected.
By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—The guns of both the Chinese and Japanese armies went silent this morning, leaving only the distant rumbling of the Shanghai-Nanking railway.

This prediction was based on information that the Chinese leaders have been making available men on this front, which they have been building. Acting a town just behind the front line on the railway.

To meet this drive Chinese claimed to have 14,000 head men which have been withdrawn from the thing sector, west of Tai and move to the main battle line west of here.

MANCHURIAN WAR LORD MAKES RUSSIAN TREATY

Chang Concludes Pact Which Protects Railroad During War With Pekin.

By the Associated Press.
TOKYO, Sept. 24.—A Mukden (Manchuria) report to the Eastern News Agency, a Japanese organization which is following the war situation in Northern China, says that Chang Tiao-Lin, head of the Manchurian army, again has announced his intention of bombing Pekin, though emphasizing that the army will not touch the foreign legations.

By the Associated Press.
TOKYO, Sept. 24.—Late dispatches from Mukden confirm previous reports that Chang Tiao-Lin, the Manchurian leader, has made an agreement with the soviet government, which covers the future of the Chinese Eastern Railway and includes the recognition of the Moscow Government. The soviet government agrees not to take hostile action against the railroad while Chang is at war with Pekin.

The agreement, it is said, was made between Chang and a representative of the soviet sent from Pekin by L. M. Karakhan, the soviet ambassador to Pekin.

Apparently Chang, fearing soviet pressure from the North, agreed to accept an agreement regarding the Chinese Eastern Railway similar to that negotiated at Pekin between the Central Government and Karakhan, which he had previously refused to recognize. Chang denies that he has recognized the Pekin government, declaring that he has made a separate one more favorable to his interests. It is apparent, however, according to the dispatches from his capital, Mukden, that he has bought off the soviet in this manner.

Under the agreement reached at Pekin on May 21 Russia agreed to permit China to redeem the Chinese Eastern Railway, built by Russia, largely with foreign capital, during the Czarist regime, and will transfer to China all its shares and bonds. The amount to be paid for these and the procedure of transfer remained to be adjusted.

Russia assumed responsibility of the claims of stockholders, bondholders and creditors of the road arising prior to the Russian revolution in 1917. China and Russia, under the agreement, are to determine the railway's future to the exclusion of other nations. The present management, where non-prejudicial to either party, is to be continued temporarily.

Lull in Fighting Before Shanghai; Heavy Attack Expected.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—While the guns of both the Chekiang and Kiangsu armies west of this city remained silent this morning the Lungwha headquarters of the Chekiang force expected their opponents to make the heaviest drive of the war tonight and tomorrow on the front between Liuhoo on the Yangtze river and Taihu beyond the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

This prediction was based on information that the Kiangsu leaders have been massing every available man on this front and that they have been fortifying Anting, a town just behind their front line on the railway.

To meet this drive Chekiang claimed to have 14,000 loyal troops which have been withdrawn from the Iling sector, west of Tai Lake, and move to the main battle sector west of here.

DR. SAWYER WILL BE BURIED AT MARION, O.

Funeral of Former Physician to Late President Harding Will Be Friday.

By the Associated Press.
MARION, O., Sept. 24.—Funeral services for Dr. Charles Elmer Sawyer, former personal physician to the late President Harding, who died unexpectedly of heart disease yesterday in his sixty-fifth year, will be held from the Sawyer home here at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be in the Marion cemetery, where the body of the late President was placed.

Friday afternoon Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes and many of the physician's Washington friends are expected to attend. Telegrams of sympathy continued to pour into the family home from all sections of the United States. President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes sent messages last night. The message from President Coolidge read:

"The news of your husband's death just reached us. I need not tell you the shock it caused. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in expressing the deepest sympathy to you and your family in your loss. Gen. Sawyer's life was a lesson of faithfulness and service in all of the varied activities that claimed his efforts."

Died While Sleeping.
Dr. Sawyer died while sleeping. Returning to his home at White Oaks farm here yesterday afternoon he complained of illness and his son, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, took him into his office, while he went for medicine. He was dead when his son returned.

Made a Brigadier-General.
Going to Washington with President Harding at the beginning of his administration, Dr. Sawyer was commissioned a Brigadier-General in the Medical Reserve of the Army and was given a succession of assignments, serving both as the President's physician and with the War Department and Veterans' Bureau.

He was for a time in charge of the General Board for the Hospitalization of World War Veterans, and he continued his labors after President Harding had died through the first part of the Coolidge administration.

Accompanied Harding in Illness.
He accompanied Mr. Harding on his trip to Alaska and was in constant attendance upon him during his illness.

After Mr. Harding's death, Dr. Sawyer was given charge of the veterans' bureau station at Perryville, Md., but more recently was placed on the inactive list of the Army at his own request, that he might give undivided attention to the affairs of veterans' treatment by the Government, and the Harding Memorial Association. Dr. Sawyer was born at Nevada, O., Jan. 20, 1859.

PARTICIPANTS IN FIST FIGHT EACH REFUSE TO PROSECUTE

Police Court Case in Which Salesman and Dentist Were Involved Is Dismissed.

The police court case wherein an irate husband and a bruised dentist were to ask for each other's punishment was docketed today, but failed to materialize. For each defendant's attorney asked that charges be dismissed.

The disagreement had its beginning on the evening of Sept. 15, when Ray G. Ward, a salesman of 1253 Amherst place, took Noble Owens, 29, a dentist, of 2620 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, to task, because Ward had shortly before seen his wife and 9-year-old daughter get out of Owens' automobile. The altercation occurred in front of 5566 Page boulevard, where Ward, following Owens in his car, caught up with the dentist. Ward said he told Owens he didn't want his wife and child riding in the dentist's machine, and then the dentist struck at him. Anyhow, there was a fight and Owens suffered a fractured nose, bruised eye and lacerated lip.

When Owens came into court today he still had a patch over his left eye.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Following is a list of the high and low prices for stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, Sept. 24, 1924. The figures are given in dollars and cents. The figures are given in dollars and cents. The figures are given in dollars and cents.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Yesterday's recovery in stocks gathered momentum today, under the leadership of the railroad shares and standard industrial, resulting in general gains of from a rounded fraction to as much as 2 and 3 points. Trading activity increased in activity, the turnover reaching 1,000,000 shares. Although good rails and good industrial were active, the trading was centered in specialities and pool stocks. After lying dormant for a few weeks, many of the pools apparently have revived. The making good of numerous 'pips' recently has stimulated speculation and given them a new following. While the favorable August earnings statements of the railroads is being mentioned as a cause for strength in the carrier issues, it is difficult to see how industrial news forms a legitimate basis for a fresh advance at this time. Cheap money is, of course, the strong pillar under the market. Bonds, meanwhile, were less active, though prices held firm. Call money continued at 2 percent.

Foreign Exchange Market.
"Strength in the so-called neutral country currencies continued in the foreign exchange market. Sterling was the higher, gaining 1/4 of a cent at 44 1/2. French francs, however, after a temporary advance of 2 points, fell back for a net loss of 1/4 of a point at 52 1/2. Belgian francs meanwhile were consistently weak, giving up 1 point. This currency new quoted at 4 1/2. cents is some 17 points below its price of a week ago. A fair amount of business was transacted with fewer cotton and grain bills are pressing on the market than was the case a week or so ago. Apparently uncertainty in the situation in France and Belgium are encouraging speculative offerings of francs.

Commodity Report.
"In view of the excited spirit in cotton yesterday following on the heels of the Government's crop report, interest in commodity markets again was centered in that article. Under the influence of the crop report, the market was reactionary, active futures selling off in the early trading approximately 10 points. Some of the loss was made up later, but at a late price of 24.00 cents the December future was 24 points lower than the market will be able to hold depends largely on the attitude of the spinners. The jump in cotton futures was disheartened by mill interests, which were entering the market on a much larger scale than before. Government report was issued. They now are inclined to hold off in the hope that prices again may be established.

"Greater activity and wide fluctuations came into the grain markets. Higher prices were made during the morning in both corn and wheat, but they were not held. Better weather over the country brought reaction in corn and wheat decline in sympathy. December corn dropped to $1.02 1/2, and December wheat options closed 1/4 of a cent lower at $1.14 1/2.

"Development in the steel industry during the past week are somewhat obscured by the attempts of the mills and buyers to make adjustment to the new price schedule following the abolition of the Pittsburgh plus basing system by the Steel Corporation. Incidentally the corporation appears to be less affected by the new order of pricing than the independents. With the wide-spread system of plants, the corporation does not appear to be particularly handicapped in meeting competition, whereas most of the independents with plants at only one place face more restricted territory. So far as operations are concerned, the Iron Age reports little change in the rate, which is around 43 percent, though the business during the first three weeks of the month are believed to be below last month. Meanwhile hand to mouth buying continued in both steel and pig iron.

Foreign Exchange Market.
"Strength in the so-called neutral country currencies continued in the foreign exchange market. Sterling was the higher, gaining 1/4 of a cent at 44 1/2. French francs, however, after a temporary advance of 2 points, fell back for a net loss of 1/4 of a point at 52 1/2. Belgian francs meanwhile were consistently weak, giving up 1 point. This currency new quoted at 4 1/2. cents is some 17 points below its price of a week ago. A fair amount of business was transacted with fewer cotton and grain bills are pressing on the market than was the case a week or so ago. Apparently uncertainty in the situation in France and Belgium are encouraging speculative offerings of francs.

Commodity Report.
"In view of the excited spirit in cotton yesterday following on the heels of the Government's crop report, interest in commodity markets again was centered in that article. Under the influence of the crop report, the market was reactionary, active futures selling off in the early trading approximately 10 points. Some of the loss was made up later, but at a late price of 24.00 cents the December future was 24 points lower than the market will be able to hold depends largely on the attitude of the spinners. The jump in cotton futures was disheartened by mill interests, which were entering the market on a much larger scale than before. Government report was issued. They now are inclined to hold off in the hope that prices again may be established.

"Greater activity and wide fluctuations came into the grain markets. Higher prices were made during the morning in both corn and wheat, but they were not held. Better weather over the country brought reaction in corn and wheat decline in sympathy. December corn dropped to $1.02 1/2, and December wheat options closed 1/4 of a cent lower at $1.14 1/2.

"Development in the steel industry during the past week are somewhat obscured by the attempts of the mills and buyers to make adjustment to the new price schedule following the abolition of the Pittsburgh plus basing system by the Steel Corporation. Incidentally the corporation appears to be less affected by the new order of pricing than the independents. With the wide-spread system of plants, the corporation does not appear to be particularly handicapped in meeting competition, whereas most of the independents with plants at only one place face more restricted territory. So far as operations are concerned, the Iron Age reports little change in the rate, which is around 43 percent, though the business during the first three weeks of the month are believed to be below last month. Meanwhile hand to mouth buying continued in both steel and pig iron.

NEW YORK CURE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Following is a list of the high and low prices for stocks on the New York Stock Exchange, Sept. 24, 1924. The figures are given in dollars and cents. The figures are given in dollars and cents. The figures are given in dollars and cents.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Yesterday's recovery in stocks gathered momentum today, under the leadership of the railroad shares and standard industrial, resulting in general gains of from a rounded fraction to as much as 2 and 3 points. Trading activity increased in activity, the turnover reaching 1,000,000 shares. Although good rails and good industrial were active, the trading was centered in specialities and pool stocks. After lying dormant for a few weeks, many of the pools apparently have revived. The making good of numerous 'pips' recently has stimulated speculation and given them a new following. While the favorable August earnings statements of the railroads is being mentioned as a cause for strength in the carrier issues, it is difficult to see how industrial news forms a legitimate basis for a fresh advance at this time. Cheap money is, of course, the strong pillar under the market. Bonds, meanwhile, were less active, though prices held firm. Call money continued at 2 percent.

CORN PRICES DOWN ON LOCAL MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—Corn futures closed 2 cents lower on the local market and wheat was affected, but the net change was slight. In the local cash market wheat was 1c to 2c higher and hard 2c higher. The demand was for soft and medium grades. Demand was fair.

Corn futures opened lower and ruled as in the early trading under influence of weather conditions. Wheat was higher owing to report of continued export inquiry for rye. Liverpool wheat opened 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 higher.

December wheat opened at $1.34 to $1.35 1/2 and May opened at $1.35 1/2 to $1.36 1/2. December corn opened at $1.02 1/2 to $1.03 1/2 and May opened at $1.03 1/2 to $1.04 1/2.

Local receipts were 34 cars of wheat and 70 cars of corn. The local market was 1c to 2c higher and hard 2c higher. The demand was for soft and medium grades. Demand was fair.

Through September market received 1754 cars of wheat against 2643 a year ago.

40,000 NEAR STARVATION IN PHILIPPINE PROVINCES

Floods, Locusts and Animal Disease Cause; Natives Eating Roots of Banana Trees.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Sept. 24.—Forty thousand persons in Pangasinan and Tarlac Provinces, in Luzon, are reported reduced to a state of semi-starvation on account of floods, locust and animal diseases. The American Red Cross has authorized appropriation of a month's supply of rice to relieve the suffering.

According to reports received here, thousands of persons have been living on the cores and trunks of papaya palms, the trunks of buri palms, the roots of banana trees and wild carrots—all foods injurious to health.

Because the Red Cross investigation revealed conditions in the two provinces as serious, it has been decided to arrange relief there until Oct. 15, when new crops will be harvested.

Governor-General Leonard Wood declared today that his office had not been advised of any famine in the two provinces, but that he had ordered an official investigation.

LOWDEN TALKS ON FARM WOES

Says They Are All Due to Democratic and G. O. P. Can End Them.

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—The most important question pressing upon the American people for solution is the farm problem and the policies of a Republican administration can solve it, former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois declared last night in an address before the Michigan Republican State convention here. The primary cause of the great distress among the rural population he said is the overproduction which was started in war times and has been continued, and the next cause, he said, is the deflation policy adopted by the Federal Reserve Board in 1920. Both took place, he said, under a Democratic administration.

Improvements proposed by the Democrats, Lowden said, include stabilization of European markets, and he added that the Dawes commission has done more to attain this end than has been accomplished by any other factor. If Europe shall enter upon a period of prosperity and if she shall furnish better markets for our farm products, it is due entirely to the success of the Dawes commission, initiated by a Republican administration," he said.

SKIN CLEARED PROMPTLY

GUARANTEED RELIEF

If you suffer from eczema, pimples, acne, boils, blackheads or other skin troubles, here is the one way you can clear your skin promptly and safely.

Ask your druggist for a jar of Mercier's Cream. Put it on as directed. Unless Mercier's relieves your trouble, it doesn't cost you one cent. Take the jar back and the druggist will refund your money!

You won't mind using Mercier's. It's different from the ordinary greasy, smelly ointments. It disappears immediately you apply it. Leaves no trace—no stain—just a faint, pleasant perfume.

Don't suffer an unsightly skin another day. Buy Mercier's at our risk. It has relieved thousands. It will relieve you. At your druggist's—75 cents the jar. The L. D. Caulk Co., Milford, Del.

Combining Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and it never fails to do the work.

FUNERAL HERE TOMORROW OF O'MALLEY, SLAIN CONVICT

Inquest Holds St. Louis Gangster Was Killed When Attempting to Escape Prison.

CHESTER, Ill., Sept. 24.—An inquest jury which heard the testimony of the St. Louis gangster who was shot by guards as he fled from Chester prison Monday, finished his business yesterday and was taken to the prison dining room where they were called on for another service. Another jury, Howard Prazze, 22 years old, from St. Louis County, had the noon from the prison dining room where they were called on for another service. The jury was again impaneled after lunch and a verdict of suicide was returned.

In the O'Malley case, the jury ruled that he died of bullet wounds inflicted by an unknown person or persons as he fled from the prison. He was one of six desperate convicts who scaled the north wall in broad daylight by means of an improvised ladder. O'Malley was killed during a fusillade fired by guards and another convict, John Frazze, who was captured. Frazze had been in the prison term of about three years for burglary and larceny. He was working in the storehouse Saturday when he dissolved cleaning ley in a cup and drank it. O'Malley had served two years of a life term for participation in the murder of a Granite City Deputy Sheriff.

O'Malley will be buried at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow at an undertaker's chapel at 1029 North Grand boulevard, with services at Church of the Immaculate Conception and Interment in Calvary Cemetery. He was 32 years old and survived by his parents, Anthony and Bridget O'Malley, and a brother.

WHEELER'S GIRLS AND PANS 'GET THE MONEY' IN CROWDS

Campaign Contributions Average $500 a Meeting; Pittsburgh Audience From Record.

ABROAD SENATOR WHEELER'S SPECIAL TRAIN ENROUTE TO ST. INSANE PATIENT WHO ESCAPED FROM HOSPITAL CAUGHT Man Gone Three Weeks Is Discovered in Hospital of Bar in Connecticut.

Cletus Bridges, 24 years old, of O'Fallon, Ill., an insane patient who escaped from the State Hospital at Joliet, Ill., yesterday in a barn at the home of William Friedhoff at Edwardsville. He had been confined in a hayloft and was discovered only when repairs were being made at a point near where he hid.

KINNEY NOT TO PROSECUTE ANYONE FOR SHOOTING HIM
State Senator Now Fully Recovered From Wounds Suffered Last June.

State Senator Michael Kinney, now fully recovered from bullet wounds suffered June 3, when shot as he was waiting for a commutation train at Oakland Station, said today he was not interested in prosecuting anyone for shooting him.

He still insists that a photograph of Shane, shown to him when he was in St. John's Hospital, looked like that of the man who shot him. "I am not bothered about it any more, one way or the other," he said. "If the people want to have a dangerous maniac at large, that is their business."

The police, by their inactivity, have indicated they have no particular desire to bring Shane back from Hayti, Mo., to the City Sanitarium, from which he escaped the night before Senator Kinney was shot. Shane has denied shooting the Senator, and, as told, has affidavits of five Hayti residents that he arrived in that town the morning the attempt was made to assassinate the Senator.

Peeling the Skin Is Better Than Bleaching

Ever since the discovery that ordinary scrubbed wax would absorb and remove a discolored or blemished complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching creams has increased rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its broadest and most effective use is in the treatment of the face. It is quickly absorbed, and ladies who have been paying high prices for "special bleaches" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that scrubbed wax out-ranks them all. It can be obtained at all drug stores, who have it in the original one-ounce package. The favorite way of using it is to apply the cream before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

MOTORIST FLEES AFTER HITTING BOY
Police Seeking Driver Who Turned Out Lights and Sped From Scene.

Police are seeking the driver of a Ford touring car who turned out the lights on his machine and fled after striking Stanley Graczyk, 11 years old, of 1432 North Ninth street, in front of his home, at 7:15 p. m. yesterday. The boy was crossing from the west to the east side of Ninth street, when the southbound machine struck him. He is in a serious condition at city hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Frank Schmidt, 49 years old, a salesman of 624 Passen street, is in a critical condition at Alexian Brothers' Hospital from a fractured skull and fractured right thigh, suffered at 11:30 p. m. when his Ford coupe overturned, following a collision with a machine, at Broadway and Gasconade street.

Lammert's Warehouse Removal Sale

Starts Monday, September 29th

A totally different and intensive selling campaign designed to reduce our warehouse stocks and save moving costs. You get the benefit of reduced prices at the very height of the buying season.

OUR rapidly expanding wholesale and retail business has compelled us to consolidate our warehouse facilities into one building of mammoth proportions. To save moving expense and handling costs we are placing reduced prices on every piece of furniture on our floors of which we have a stock. Instead of moving all our stored furniture from the old warehouses to the new one, we have estimated the cost of this moving and have reduced the prices accordingly, the larger the stock of each suite or odd piece the more drastic is the reduction.

Coming as it does right at the height of the buying season, this selling campaign presents saving opportunities that are most unusual. If low prices and attractive values mean anything, much of the furniture now in our warehouses will find a place in St. Louis homes.

Three-Days' Advance Inspection Thursday, Friday and Saturday

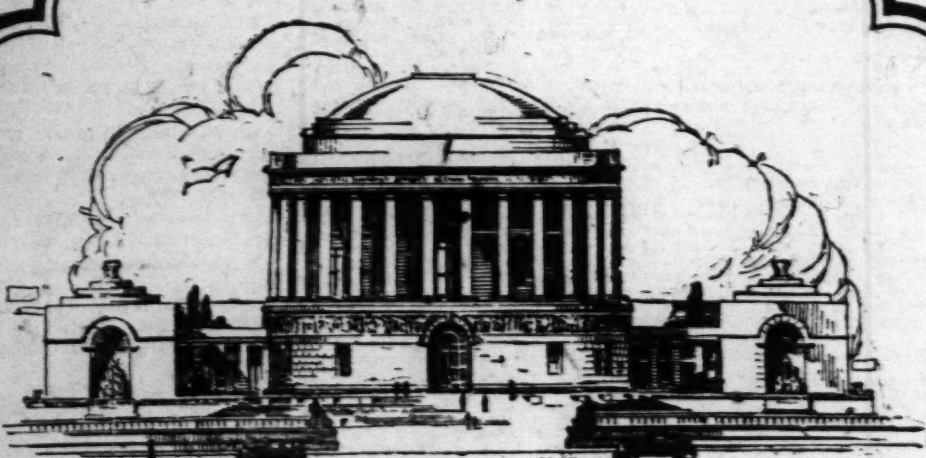

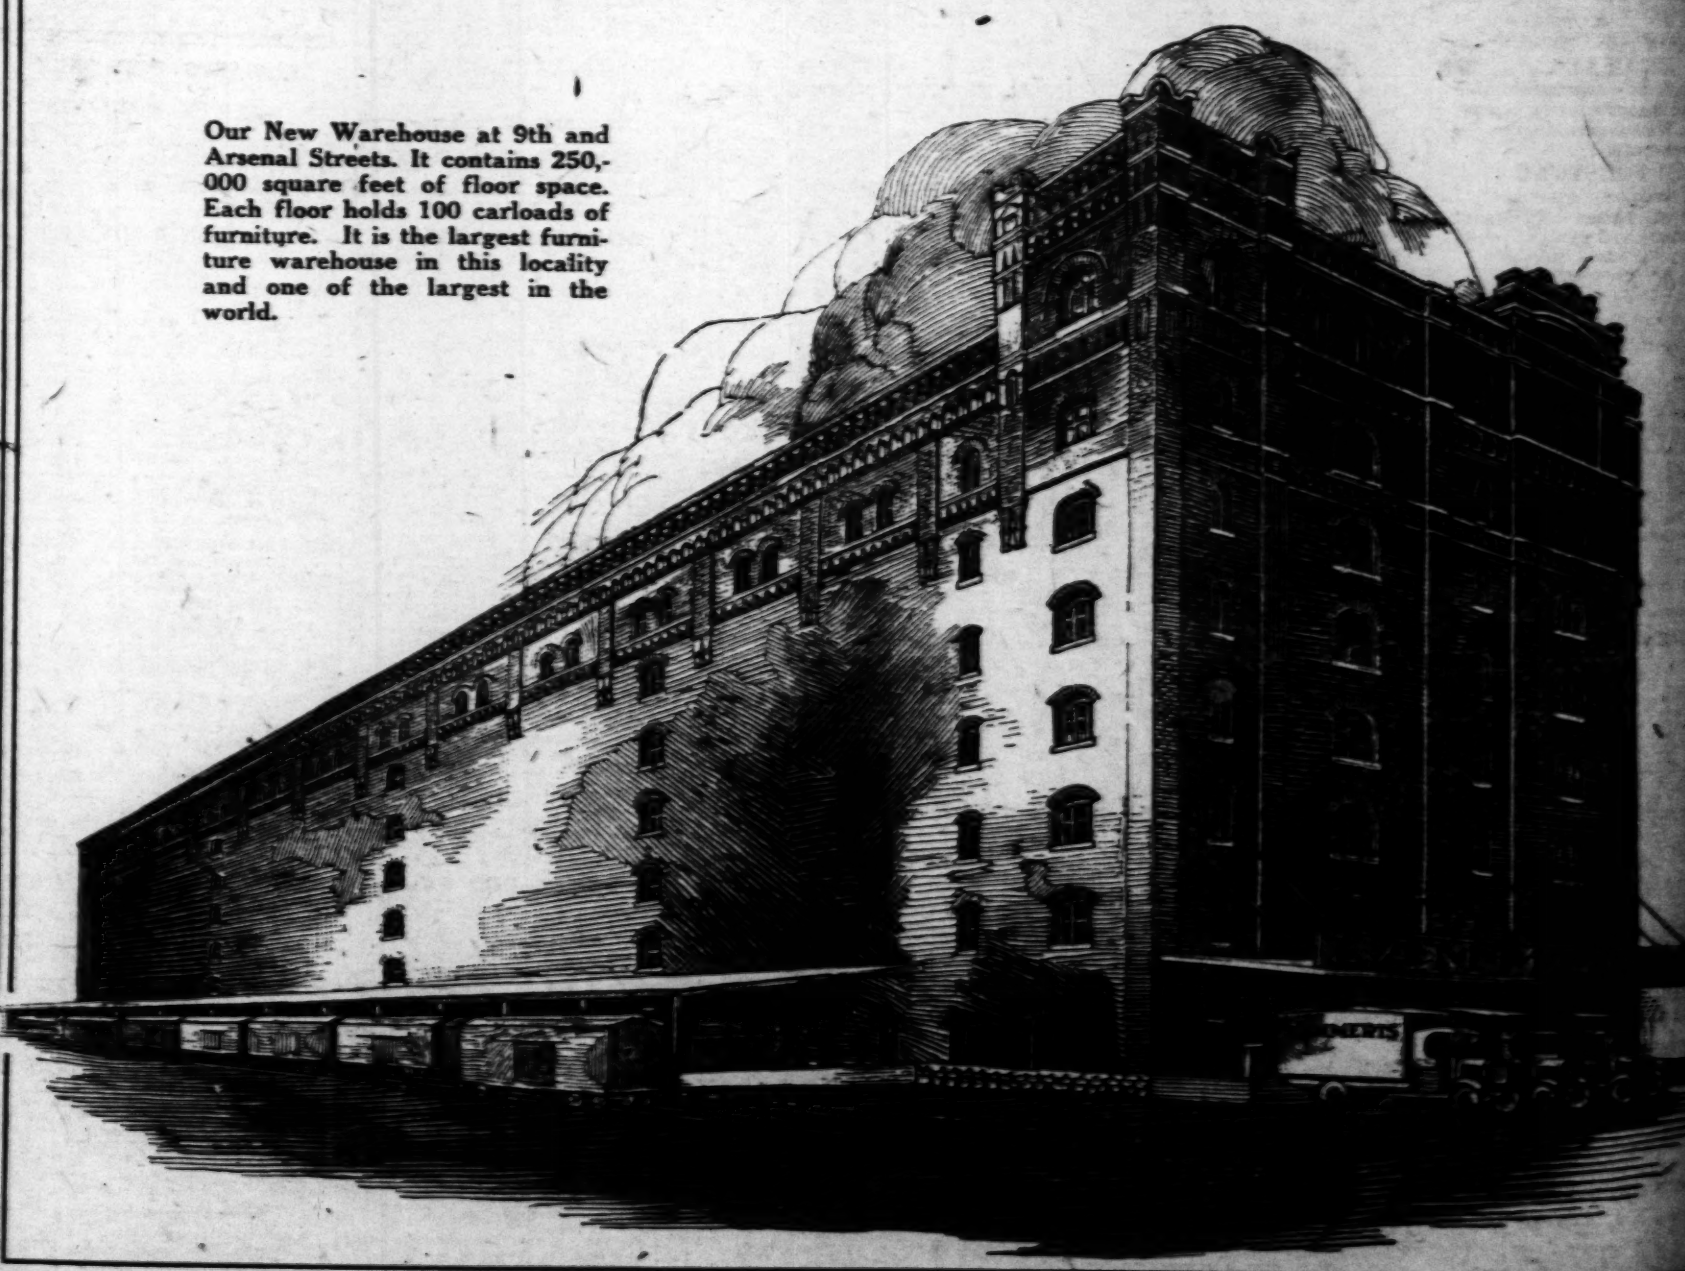

To give you an opportunity to view these splendid values prior to the formal opening of the sale, we have designated Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week as Advance Inspection Days. If possible, you should arrange to be here one of these days because we anticipate unusual buying activity.

Very seldom is it given to one to participate in an event as significant as this. Furniture and Rugs for bedroom, living room, dining room and breakfast room are included. Remember, this is our regular merchandise embodying that sterling quality on which we have built our reputation. Come in tomorrow.

RETAILERS NEW LOCATION WHOLESALE 911-919 WASHINGTON

Our New Warehouse at 9th and Arsenal Streets. It contains 250,000 square feet of floor space. Each floor holds 100 carloads of furniture. It is the largest furniture warehouse in this locality and one of the largest in the world.

YOU may know something of the Elks National Memorial Headquarters Building. We show above an illustration of this beautiful structure now rising in Chicago.

It is a memorial to the members of this Order—more than 1200—who gave their lives to their country during the Great War; and the more than 70,000 who showed their willingness to do so by entering the service of their country.

It is to be also the National Headquarters of the Order; an imposing and significant monument to the aims and ideals of a great company of men whose interest in the affairs of peace are as great as in the affairs of war; men who seek to promote better communities where they live; better citizenship, better homes.

The Elks Magazine is the medium by which these members of a great Order—850,000 of them—keep in touch with the work of the Order. It is a good magazine for the home; it goes to homes. It is a good "advertising medium" because of these things.

FAIR WEATHER WIVES

CHAPTER XI.

A Chance for Recovery.

THE evening week was an agony of waiting to Marjorie. Suppose when the great French surgeon arrived he found Hollister's case hopeless, she thought? Would he live through the cruel disappointment? Wouldn't this hope, if it proved false, plunge him further into the black abyss from which he had only just begun to crawl upward? Suppose they did operate—and he died?

She shut her eyes and prayed, though she knew, instinctively that Hollister would far rather be dead than keep living as he was.

They didn't talk about the forthcoming visit of the great surgeon at all—she and Hollister. He was very gay, but talked about unimportant things. She divined that his gaiety was only a blind, a courageous attempt to keep others from learning his hopes and fears.

She did not guess that he was torn by two great, overwhelming emotions. One was the passionate hope that he could be cured. The other was the black certainty that his cure would mean the loss of Marjorie's companionship.

If he was cured, able to face the world once more on his two feet, to step into the place of power which he had been forced to abandon, he would be done. She could not look back then to the bright world from which she had come to comfort him. He would lose the heaven he had lived in for the past months.

But, after all, he had had no right to keep her there, he told himself. He wouldn't have let her stay into another winter. He would have sent her back to the life her youth and beauty demanded, though it cost him his heart's blood.

The day came at last when the great French surgeon arrived in Sebern's car, with two New York physicians accompanying him. One of the latter was Dr. Maynard, the surgeon who had attended Hollister at the time of his accident the year before.

He exhibited no surprise at finding Marjorie there.

Hollister was smiling, but rather white, when she ushered the visitors into his room. His dark eyes were so passionately hopeful that she went back to the veranda feeling her way through her tears.

The lawyer was waiting there. He put her in a chair and talked to her impersonally about affairs in town. Occasionally, when her glance wandered off over the pine-clad slopes of the valley, he looked at her sharply, speculatively. But apparently, he got no answer to his unspoken question.

Dr. Maynard came out finally and joined them. He was smiling. "There is hope. Dr. Marquette will operate."

"Oh! then Marjorie is thankful," breathed Marjorie, and then: "Will it be dangerous?"

"All operations of such a nature are dangerous, Mrs. Hollister," the doctor replied truthfully, "we can only do the best that our skill permits. Dr. Marquette has been phenomenally successful. We have that to comfort us."

When the great surgeon and his associates had gone back to town to prepare for the forthcoming operation, Marjorie went in to Hollister.

He was sitting, staring straight before him, his eyes alight with a great hope.

She went to him hesitatingly, dropped suddenly on her knees beside his chair, and laid both her hands on his.

"Oh, Reed, aren't you happy?" she breathed.

For answer, he lifted her fingers to his lips, the first semblance of a caress he had ever dared since she had come to him.

"I am very grateful," he said, and humbled, too, for this chance is vouchsafed to few. Do you know what I am going to do, if—

"If things turn out all right? I am going to give all my effort, all the financial aid I can afford, to the curing of these unfortunate cripples who have no resources of their own. If Dr. Marquette, or some other great surgeon, will undertake the work of a wholesale clinic, I will assure it the necessary financial support."

"How splendid!" she murmured, and then, after a moment: "When—when is this operation of yours to take place?"

"Day after tomorrow—here."

"Here?" she echoed in surprise. "I thought they would want to take you to town."

He shook his head, smiling slightly.

"I'm glad it is to be here. If—

"If things go wrong, I'd rather—well, this is the first place in the world to live in—I rather think it would be the best to die in."

"Don't!" she cried sharply. "Don't dare talk like that."

He smiled a little whimsically, then he looked up at her suddenly.

"Would you marry me now, quickly? Then, before she could stammer a reply, he added, "Don't answer that, please! It wasn't a fair question. I have contempt for a sick person who tries to play on other people's sympathies."

On the following day Marjorie received a telegram that informed her.

The message which Marjorie received the following day, phoned up from the nearest telegraph station, was from her mother.

Mrs. Boice-Nevena, with her customary concern for the material things of life in the face of no matter what spiritual crisis, had wired: "See by papers that H. is to undergo operation. My best wishes for success and ultimate cure. Hope you have looked to our future provisions. Selwyn tells me he has made new will."

Marjorie, listening to the toneless voice of the operator droning out the words, flinched as vividly as if the girl were in the same room to witness her shame.

"Thank you," she said coldly at the conclusion of the message. "Yes, I have it all. No, I do not care to repeat it."

She hung up the receiver and, with burning face, went out on the terrace where Hollister lay in the sunshine.

"Mother has just wired her good wishes," she said calmly, bending over a flowering rosebush to hide her face.

"Everyone is kind," he said, smiling slightly. He had no illusions regarding his mother-in-law's fondness for him. His keen intuition could just about divine what was in Mrs. Boice-Nevena's message.

The sun was sinking low in the west, hovering over the topmost plumes of the distant pines as though it were loath to end this perfect June day.

"Tomorrow night," said Hollister slowly, wondering if he should be alive to see another sunset.

He didn't finish, only shrugged, and Marjorie, divining his thought, said quickly:

"It's getting chilly for you out here. I'll call James to wheel you indoors."

In accordance with the doctor's orders, Hollister was put to bed early. Just before his man came to get him, Marjorie bade him good-night and wished him a reposeful sleep.

He looked up at her gratefully. "How good you are to me, and what a treat I am to you—once."

"Ssh!" she silenced him with one slim finger on her red lips.

He thought how beautiful she was in her compassion, what anguish it would be to lose her if he recovered.

Perhaps—she scarcely dared hope it—she could be persuaded to stay on the basis by which they had lived these past months. Perhaps, if he were able to live in town again, she could be once more the center of his bright world in which she was reared, she would be content to let him adore her and surround her with all the extravagance which his wealth permitted, just for the privilege of having her near him, hearing her voice.

She hadn't seemed to hate him, after all. Certainly, she hadn't feared him.

He went to bed with that hope beckoning him on, sustaining him in the thought of the morrow.

But it was short-lived!

An hour later he lay staring into the darkness, with hopeless, pain-filled eyes. The desire to live, which should have sustained him through the torturing ordeal to come, had left him suddenly.

And Marjorie was quite unaware that she was unwittingly the cause of it.

She had been about to retire, when the sound of a motor brought her to her feet, wondering: The doctors weren't due until tomorrow. A night visitor was unusual.

Who recognized the voices in the hall, Leila and Ivan?

"My dear," Leila was gushing emotionally, "we came to be with you at this terrible time. Ivan insisted on it. He says you were such a brick when he was ill. You know, Marjorie, I've been here."

Marjorie accepted Ivan's hand-clasp, read the sympathy in his eyes. Ivan, at least, was real, but Leila—

"Mother wanted to come, too, but we dissuaded her for awhile, anyway," Leila was unwrapping herself from voluminous motor veils. "She may change her mind again and come after all. You know mother's determination!"

she laughed lightly. "And Julie and her husband are on a motor trip up this way somewhere. They may drop in when they read the papers."

"Really, we're not running a hotel," remarked Marjorie, vexedly. "And this event is an operation, not a celebration."

"Oh, but Marjorie," Leila was reproachful, "everyone is so interested."

"Hm!" was Marjorie's non-committal comment. The whole affair, to her mind, took on the aspect of vultures gathering hopefully around a sick animal.

"I'll tell you something else," Leila went on without lowering a voice that was audible to the man toasting restlessly on his bed of pain. "Tom Grosvenor is dashing on from Chicago. He's never given up hope of you. Cora Forester says, 'You've said you'd marry him when you're free, you know. And you will be free now, whichever way things turn out—whether Reed is cured, or not.'"

Her unfinished sentence was significant.

THE TRIALS OF AN ONLY CHILD

By Wm. A. McKeever

Noted Lecturer and Authority on Educational and Sociological Subjects.

GERMAN physicians have discovered a new mental disease, in the case of the child having no brothers and sisters and being reared exclusively in the company of adults, and they have named it "only-childitis."

The chief symptoms are shyness, self-loneliness, super-sensitiveness and ill-temper, with inability to play with others. Moroseness is a later development in such cases.

But it is scarcely necessary to call this undesirable mental condition of the lone child a disease, any more than you would call "jealous-mindedness" in youth a disease. Both are direct results of training.

Teach initiative. Start your little one early in the performance of tiny projects which involve a problem and which call for persistent trial and self-correction. Follow him and assist him only enough to keep his initiative alive. Do nothing for him that he can accomplish for himself.

Teach responsibility. Put your child frequently in the position of being consciously challenged as to his responsibility and reliability in the performance of his duties. Make him see at every turn that failure is discreditable and displeasing to others.

Teach unselfishness. The symptoms named above are largely the outgrowth of selfish indulgence of the typical small child. Wherefore, let "a square deal to all" become a family motto from the first. See that the little one does his share of waiting on the others, that he accepts for himself the best of the home comforts and pleasures no more frequently than he accords such privileges to his parents.

Teach sociability. Here we have the basic idea in the correction of the error. Social inexperience or social ignorance lies at the bottom of the trouble, and continual social mixing will prove to be the best corrective influence.

Too often we successfully train your child to respond wholeheartedly to the needs of our complex society by bringing him into chummy relations with many young people. It is the great common crowd, with its logic, its pulling influences, which only can be depended upon properly to socialize as well as to civilize your child. Give him regularly larger groups of social companions and he will easily avoid the disease "only-childitis."

THE WOMAN OF IT

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

A PLEA FOR FLIPPANCY.

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

THE national curse of superficiality," says Dean Virginia Gildersleeve of Barnard, should be lifted as far as possible from the college student. But how, without the froth of superficiality, the yeast of flippancy, shall we be saved from the national curse of soggy-mindedness? "Life is real, life is earnest," sang a national poet; and (proving that Americans do take poetry seriously) most of his fellow countrymen today so live that when their time is come to join the innumerable caravan they can look Longfellow's shade in the eye and tell him, "Henry, you said it!"

Flippancy, which is the gift of taking life with a certain light originality, of skimming surfaces instead of plunging into depths (dark, unpleasant things!), seems to us deplorably neglected at present. And this is a pity. An inability to view the world other than seriously shows an error in perspective. The poor old world, most of it, isn't a serious spectacle. It is ironically, whimsically funny, and so are its inhabitants. Many are now so funny (unconsciously) that a conscious, light-hearted, flippancy acceptance of the fact seems to them a mental state meriting their intellectual contempt.

"W. L. George?" pitifully repeated a Serious Young College Graduate. (Dean Gildersleeve would have rejoiced in her freedom from "the national curse.") "Isn't W. L. George very superficial and flippancy?"

"Yes, thank heaven," he answered. "It was he who wrote, 'There's no place like home—which is no comfort.' And also 'The war may not have taught us to love our enemies, but it certainly taught us to hate our allies.'"

It was useless. The S. Y. C. G. could not produce a giggle; only the pained look of one whose worst suspicions are confirmed. W. L. George was flippancy! Out of his own mouth he condemned himself.

Americans were not always victims of such ingrowing solemnity. Our favorite Mark Twain story (indicating, doubtless, our incurable flippancy) is the familiar one about the Yankee traveler of other years, to whom a guide showed the sacred flame that for centuries and centuries had never gone out.

"Wh-h-h!" puffed the American. "It's out now."

Another tale, of like vintage, describes the perhaps apocryphal sign hanging in the Texas garage:

"NO SMOKING. IF YOUR LIFE ISN'T WORTH ANYTHING, GASOLINE IS."

Such jesting with life and death and the high gods is crude, if you will, but of a courageous gaiety. It is—or was—the American spirit which Kipling caught in his famous phrase: "To shake the iron hand of fate and match with destiny for beers." In place of flippancy like this our Right Thinkers would substitute probing, word-weighting, survey-making—all the dull diversions of the Reformer Mind.

For that is the type which remains the sworn enemy of flippancy, tricky Puck of the intelligence. Good women, we regret to admit, are particularly intolerant of the flippancy spirit. Playing with ideas repels them; particularly playing with THE idea, or cause, which they have determined to hold sacred. That is why W. L. George, self-confessed authority on women, is by no means their favorite novelist. That is why a young woman—a "literary" one, too—tried to convince us that Philip Goodella, most scintillant of the younger English writers, is "shallow." (Philip, you may recall, is the lad who wrote that the trouble with Lady Hamilton was that Nelson left her to the nation, whereas he should have left her to Sir William Hamilton.)

To many women, humor, like guilt, is personal. A joke on their particular "movement" is a joke on them—and a joke on them is an insult. Such, at least, is our explanation of the keen resentment our sex often displays toward irreverent wit; so that on a woman's lips "you are flippancy" is a reproach and not a tribute.

Yet an inability to perpetrate, or at least to savor flippancy, denotes a truly dreadful state of affairs! It means that you have begun by taking life seriously and ended by taking yourself so. It means that your mind lingers along like old family Dobbin, instead of throwing up its heels like a colt. It means that you confuse solemnity with sapience. And it means that you are dull—oh, but very very dull!—that your words and thoughts are as kickless as Mr. Volstead would make your beverages; that you miss the tang, the bouquet, the very cream of the jest.

Flippancy's supreme function, moreover, is to be the needle which deflates the bunk. It seems to us that there is an undersupply of American needles just now. There ought to be more clever superficiality, more flippancy—not less. After all, the Longfellow theory of life is not indisputable, not even undisputed. We prefer Stevenson's contradiction, as set forth in the most beautiful of brief epitaphs, a perpetual encouragement to the flippancy:

"Life is over, life was gay; We have come the primrose way."

Turnip Tumble.

Cook white turnips in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, dice and place in a layer in a buttered casserole. Add small pieces of cold pork or veal, then another layer of turnips and another layer of meat. Make a medium white sauce and to each pint add two egg-yolks, one teaspoon of onion-juice, salt and white pepper. Mix well and pour the sauce over the turnips and meat. Cover with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit) for 30 minutes.

By the use of plastic surgery, the hand of Miss Elizabeth Marthinsen of Baltimore has been made over so that she may realize her ambition to become proficient at the piano.

Supreme Peas.

Put one pound of peas in a saucepan with salted water, and cook until tender. Drain and add a little butter and salt. Serve hot.

Orange Short Cake.

Slice three oranges, add juice one lemon, sweeten to taste with powdered sugar, let stand one-half hour. For the cake:

Two cups sifted flour. Two tablespoons sugar. One tablespoon baking powder. Three-fourths cup butter. Two-thirds cup milk. One-half teaspoon salt. Bake in quick oven. Whip one cup cream, stiff. Add one-fourth cup pulverized sugar and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Beat well together. Place oranges on top of the cake and add whipped cream.

White-Rouge "J'Adore"

The new wonder Rouge. Fits all complexions—30 shades in one box. Rub it on and it changes to skin and berry, orange or whatever shade you need. It is WATERPROOF and stays on all day. Guaranteed PURE and HARMLESS.

FUR, of course, is much in vogue this fall. The coat at the left comprises a top of dark green tweed lined with that of the coat. The collar is of opossum.

The newest mode, and a delightful one, is expressed in the piece costume shown in the center. It is of dark moleskin with a smart collar of mink. The dress follows that latest fashion of the overbust, and the skirt is absolutely straight of line.

The three-piece costume at right is of black Patou crepe, lined with bottle-green cloth. A squirrel trims the coat, which is lined with the material of the frock.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Truth.
FAR back in childhood's golden days, devoid of every care, in happy times beyond all praise when Earth was wholly fair, I loved to delve in fairy lore, or mermaids and their wiles, or misers with their treasured store, of fair, enchanted Isles. And most of all I prized that tale where, with her jeweled crown, with magic wand and silver veil and clad in silken gown, the fairy queen appeared in state and said: "Choose what you will, you can be rich or good or great, your wishes I'll fulfill!" Oh, many were the dreams I dreamed in golden childhood days and many were the schemes I schemed to enter fairy ways; and many, many were the things I used to think I'd choose; a great black horse with spreading wings, a pair of magic shoes. The years have sped away since then, with childhood's faith outgrown; but, could I gain my trust again, and in some fairy zone reach out and take the gift I prize, I would not ask to-day enchanted wings or Argus' eyes or trappings rich and gay. I would not ask for gold or fame or even joyous youth; but when that matchless hour came, I'd choose the gift of Truth. Of Truth, the beautiful and rare, life's fairest vision yet, serene and bright beyond compare, of Truth whom men forget. If all the world were true to me and I were true in turn, I think the sweet, unfettered glow of childhood would return.

Now, Do You Know—

Curiosity Is Too Much for Bowser

Who to a trust doth prove untrue
His faithlessness is bound to rue.

—Bowser the Hound.

BOWSER the Hound sat in the moonlight in Farmer Brown's barnyard watching Unc' Billy Possum stretched out at his feet. He thought Unc' Billy dead. Certainly Unc' Billy looked to be dead. Farmer Brown's Boy had told Bowser to watch Unc' Billy, and then had gone into the barn to fix a pen in which to keep Unc' Billy. So Bowser had sat down to watch. He didn't understand why he should watch Unc' Billy. A dead Possum couldn't possibly get away. But his master had told him to watch and that was enough for Bowser.

Now had Bowser suspected that there was any life at all in Unc' Billy Possum he wouldn't have taken his eyes from Unc' Billy. But as it was, he turned his head now and then for a look around the barnyard. It was while he was doing this that he thought he saw something move over in the Black Shadows near the barn. Right away he was suspicious. He forgot Unc' Billy. He kept his eyes fixed on those Black Shadows. Something did move over there. He was sure of it.

Bowser glanced down at Unc' Billy Possum. Unc' Billy was exactly as he had been ever since Farmer Brown's Boy had stretched him out there. Bowser looked back toward the barn. He was just in time to see Reddy Fox jump back out of the moonlight. He knew it was Reddy Fox. Bowser stood up. He whined softly. Once more he glanced down at Unc' Billy. Reddy Fox barked very softly. It wasn't a loud enough bark for Farmer Brown's Boy to hear inside the barn, but it was loud enough to be heard by Bowser. Bowser forgot everything but the fact that Reddy Fox was actually up there in the barnyard. You know there is nothing in the world that Bowser the Hound likes so much as chasing Reddy Fox. Nothing will excite him so much as the sight or smell of Reddy. He forgets everything else.

Reddy Fox was delighted

It was so now. He forgot that he was supposed to keep watch of Unc' Billy. The hair on the back of his neck began to rise a little. He whined softly and started straight over for the Black Shadows beside the barn where he had seen Reddy Fox. He was sure he couldn't have been mistaken. When he got there he knew he wasn't mistaken. His wonderful nose at once was filled with the strong, fresh scent left by Reddy's feet. Bowser opened his mouth and his great voice roared forth as he started to follow the scent.

Reddy Fox was delighted. Reddy had a very clever plan in that clever head of his. He would race around that barn straight over to where Unc' Billy Possum lay, grab Unc' Billy Possum and then take to his heels as fast as he could make his legs go. He would drop Unc' Billy in the first good hiding place he came to, and then lead Bowser way over in the Green Forest. There he would play a sharp trick and mix his trail up so that Bowser wouldn't be able to follow him. Then he would trot back to where he had dropped Unc' Billy Possum, get him and carry him off to where he could make a good dinner of him in peace. He had been afraid that Bowser might not be tempted away, so now he was delighted.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Give It Light.
Sunshine will keep white woodwork a good color. Too much gloom tends to make it yellow.

Better Service.
Train the maid that everything relating to one course at dinner should be removed before the next course is served and thus avoid an unsightly table.

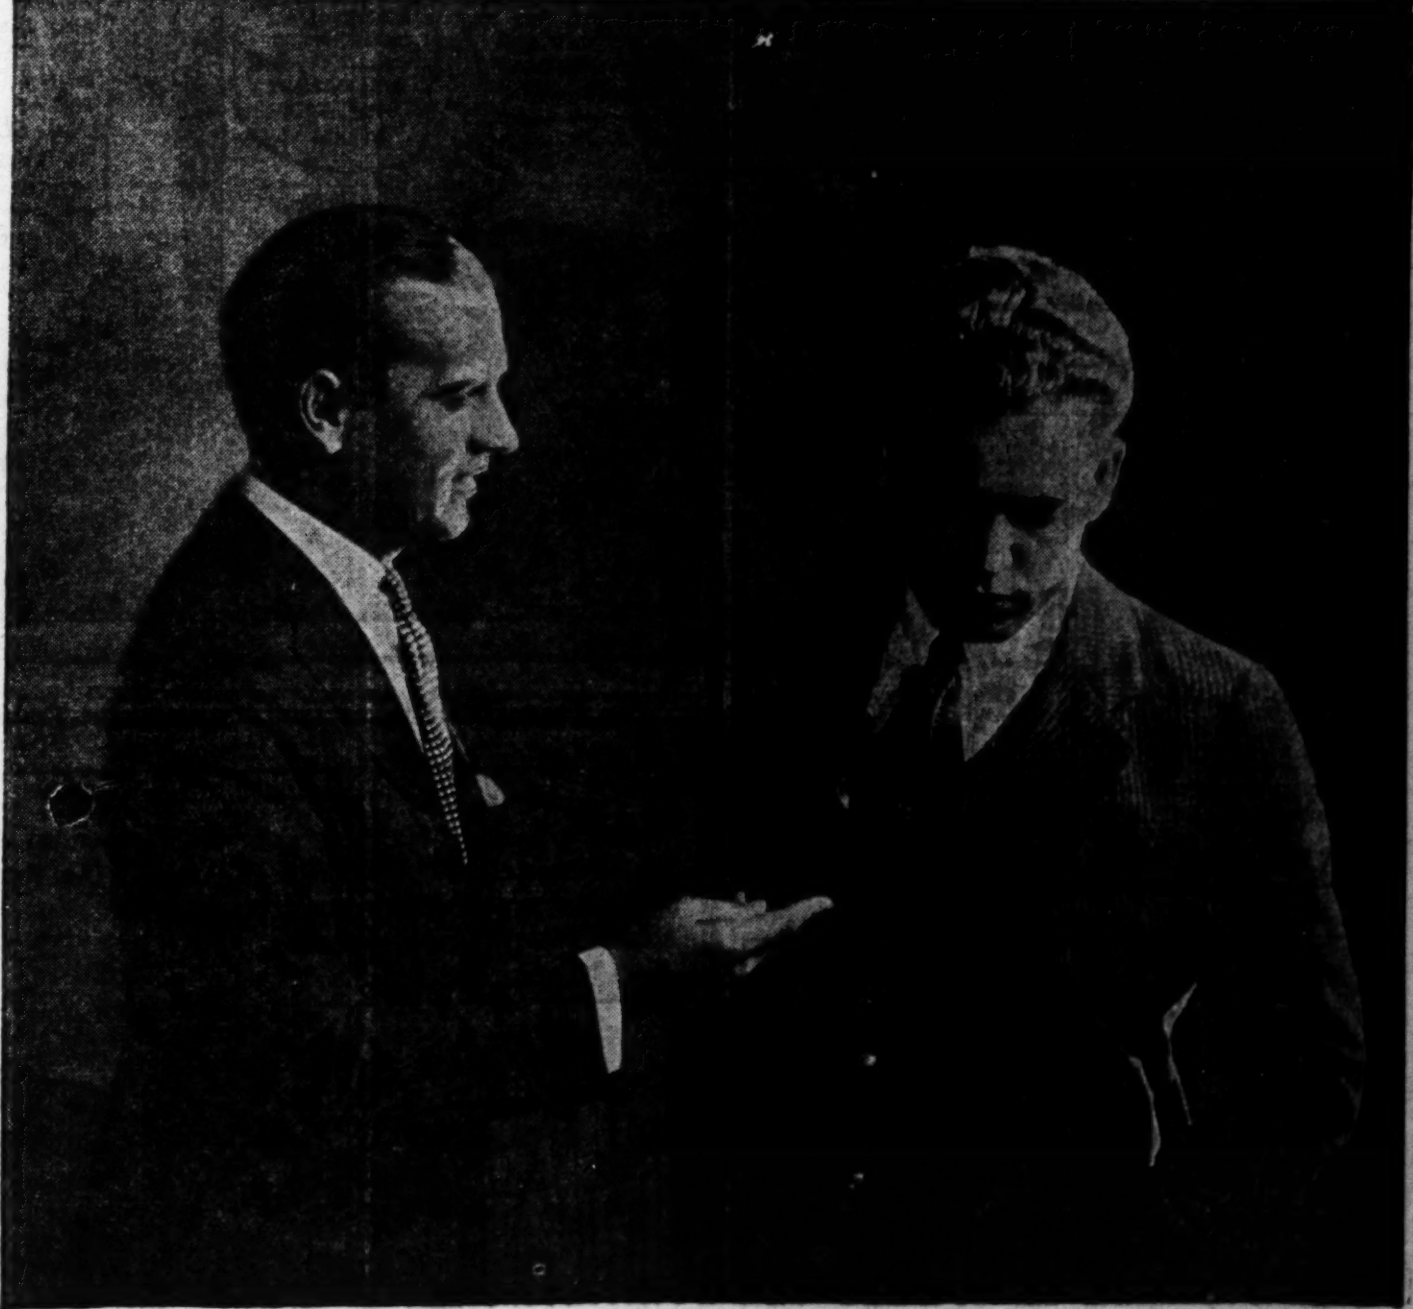

Sundry Thoughts.
For your health's sake, start each day with a small glass of orange juice.

Woolens hung on the line dripping wet are not so likely to shrink as those wrung out before drying. When making meat loaf, make a larger one than necessary. It is delicious sliced cold for the next day's lunch.

A Top Coat for the Cleanse.
When the house or apartment is small, it is often necessary to keep the electric vacuum cleaner in a clothes closet. The bag is bound to be dusty and a cover of cretonne is a joy to slip over it before putting it away to prevent the dust from ruining one's clothes. A heading in the top of a square of material with a draw string that will tighten around the top of the bag is just the thing.

"That's why you're a failure"

THIS was a job that the salesmanager dreaded to tackle. For it isn't exactly a pleasant thing to talk to someone about a matter so personal as this.

Yet he realized it was for the man's own good. He knew that this thing was holding him back—making a second or third-rater out of a born salesman.

So he got up his courage one morning and told him the blunt truth. Many men would have dodged the subject.

That's the insidious thing about halitosis (unpleasant breath). You, yourself, rarely know when you have it. And even your closest friends won't tell you.

Sometimes, of course, halitosis comes from some deep-seated organic disorder that requires professional advice. But usually—and fortunately—halitosis is only a local condition that yields to the regular use of Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. It is an interesting thing that this well-known antiseptic that has been in use for years for surgical dressings, possesses these unusual properties as a breath deodorant.

Test the remarkable deodorizing effects of Listerine this way: Rub a little onion on your fingers. Then apply Listerine and note how quickly the onion odor disappears.

This safe and long-trusted antiseptic has dozens of different uses; note the little circular that comes with every bottle. Your druggist sells Listerine in the original brown package only—three sizes: three ounce, seven ounce and fourteen ounce. Buy the large size for economy.—Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.
